Foreword

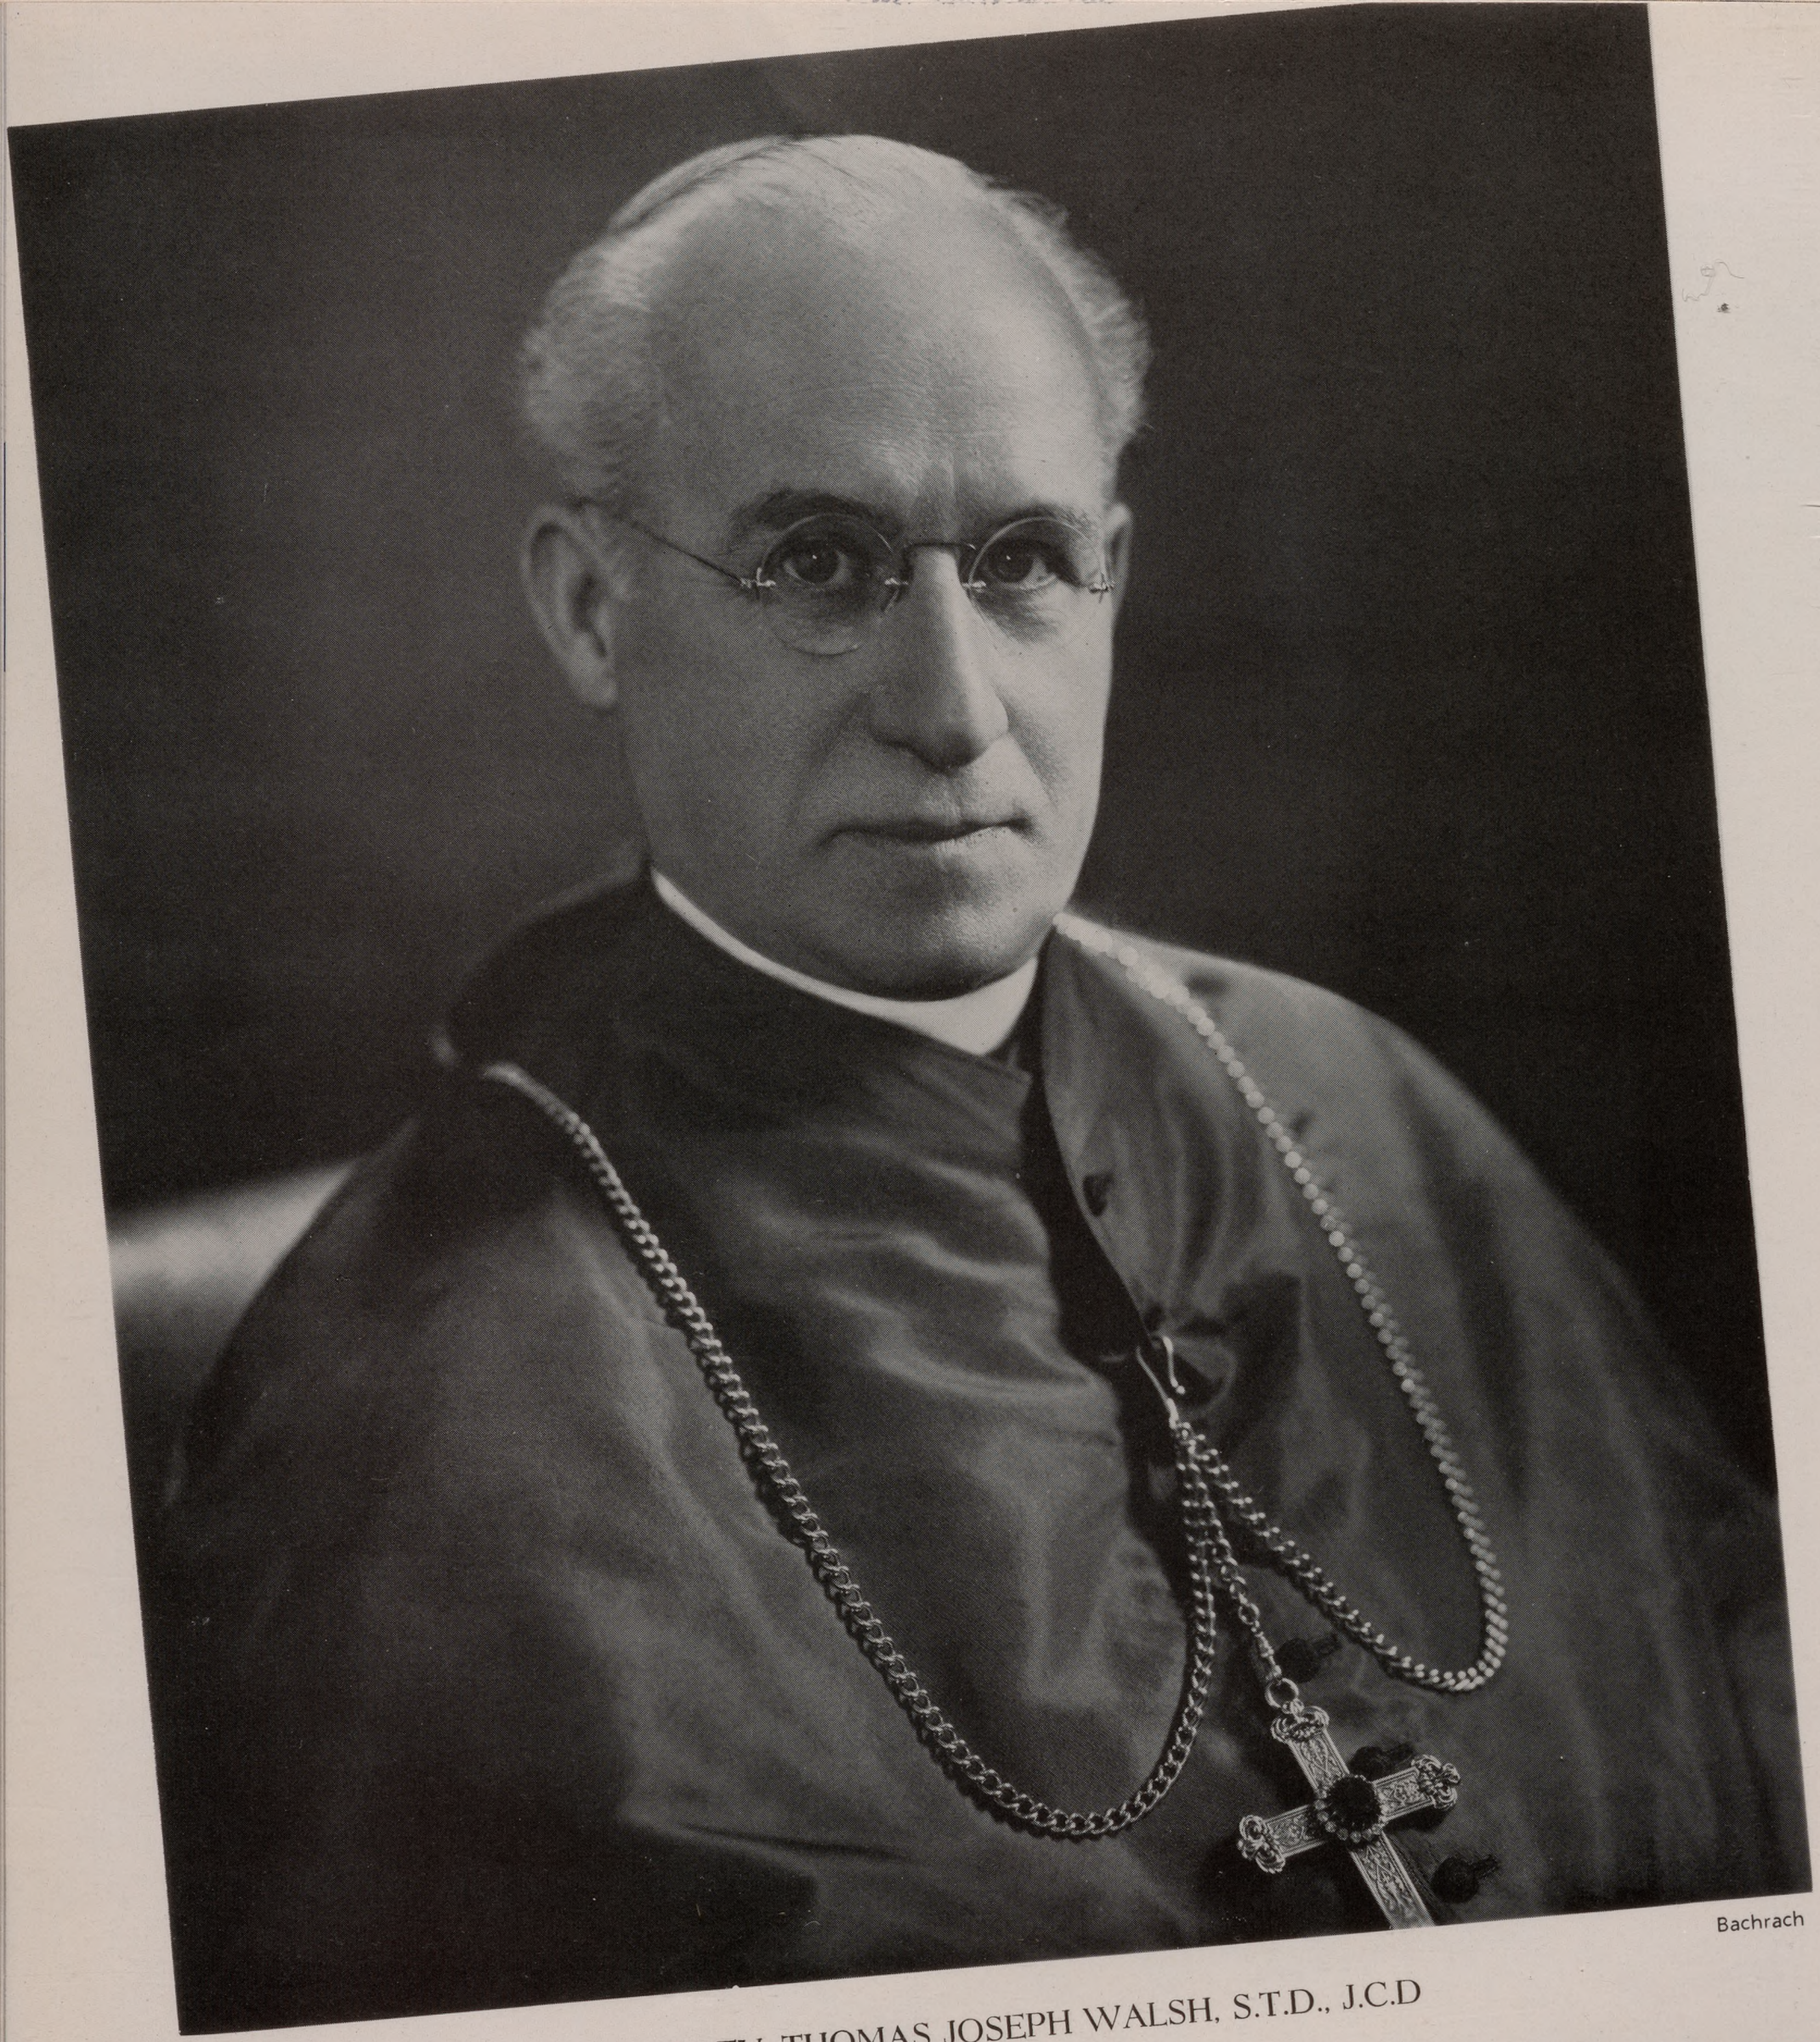

ZIT FORWARD HAZARD

The White and Blue for '41 is a product of many minds, many hands, and much labor over a span of some seventeen months. Each section of the completed book represents weeks of hard work, but for all and in all, it was a pleasant adventure and a priceless experience. It is with distinct pride and no little feeling of satisfaction that we place the book side by side with the yearbooks which have gone before.

Congratulating profoundly and blessing cordially each and every member and all the members of the Graduating Class of 1941 A.D.
of our venerable, admirable
Seton Hall College:

✝ Thomas Joseph Walsh,
Archbishop of Newark,
President of the Board of Trustees of Seton Hall College.

MOST REV. THOMAS JOSEPH WALSH, S.T.D., J.C.D

Archbishop of Newark

Dedication

APOSTLE of Christ, beloved and respected by thousands of his devoted flock is the Most Reverend Thomas Joseph Walsh, President of the Board of Trustees of Seton Hall. His devotion and loyalty to our Alma Mater have been the very heart beat of this institution for the past thirteen years.

Ever mindful of the welfare of the student body, Archbishop Walsh has given generously his extraordinary genius, amiable personality and innumerable talents to all our undertakings. Words are too feeble to render sufficient praise to our kindly, humble prelate, but our hearts will be joyous if we succeed in expressing, at least in some small way, our deep love for this holy man by making his life the theme of this book and by dedicating it to him.

THE MOST REV. THOMAS A. BOLAND

Auxiliary Bishop of Newark

THROUGH the ceasless and ardent efforts of our beloved Archbishop Walsh, Seton Hall has attained an outstanding place in the field of higher education and culture. His Excellency's first great contribution to our Alma Mater was the selection of the Very Reverend James F. Kelley for the office of the presidency, knowing that under his guidance and prudent care Seton Hall would always prosper.

Archbishop Walsh also achieved the unique distinction of raising two former presidents of Seton Hall and three other illustrious members of the alumni to the dignity of the episcopate.

The scholastic accomplishments and extensive growth of the College will always remain a tribute to the worthy success of our distinguished administrator, His Excellency Archbishop Walsh.

THE officers of administration and the faculty of Seton Hall are second to none. The clerical faculty has been well trained in the leading universities of America and Europe and the secular faculty is chosen from among the most outstanding candidates in their respective fields. The College is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and the National Catholic Educational Association. It is a Liberal Arts College and in this respect prepares its students for a decent and cultural life rather than fitting them for the specific worlds of industry and commerce. To properly accomplish this, a system of conferences with members of the faculty has been instituted, thus establishing a personalized and individual relationship between professor and pupil and giving each the benefits of a more complete understanding of the aims of Seton Hall.

Administration

Archbishop Thomas Joseph Walsh makes ecclesiastical history by consecrating five members of his Newark Archdiocesan Clergy to the Episcopacy during his twelve years in Newark.

Their excellencies the Most Reverend Thomas A. Boland, the Most Reverend Francis J. Monaghan, the Most Reverend John A. Duffy, the Most Reverend Thomas H. McLaughlin, the Most Reverend William A. Griffin.

He blesses his flock as he enters St. Patrick's Cathedral on Easter Sunday.

While the Very Reverend James F. Kelley looks on, he signs the registry of honored guests at the laying of the cornerstone of the new gymnasium.

Together with the Apostolic Delegate, Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, he receives the homage of his faithful at his installation dinner as Archbishop.

Characteristically modern, His Excellency makes a radio address.

BOARD OF

The Most Rev. Thomas J. Walsh
S.T.D., J.C.D.

For thirteen years, His Excellency, Archbishop Walsh as president of the Board of Trustees, has been the guiding hand of Seton Hall. He has been interested in everything pertaining to the College and has supported every activity.

The Most Rev. Thomas H. McLaughlin
S.T.D., LL.D.

His Excellency, Bishop McLaughlin, has long been associated with Seton Hall as student teacher, president and trustee. While he was president—he did much to improve the scholastic standing of the College.

The Most Rev. William A. Griffin
D.D., LL.D.

As a past professor at the College and until recently Rector of the Immaculate Conception Seminary, His Excellency, Bishop Griffin, has a deep interest in Seton Hall. A proof of this interest is his untiring efforts as a trustee.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. John C. McClary
A.M., LL.D., V.G.

Monsignor McClary has been affiliated with Seton Hall continuously, with the exception of a few years, since 1913 as professor. Vice-President and trustee. He has shown great devotion to and is greatly respected as a true friend of Seton Hall.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles H. Mackel

Although it has been many years since Monsignor Mackel has been stationed at the College, he has been a member of the Board of Trustees without interruption.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. John F. Ryan
M.R., LL.D.

Since 1880 when he first entered as a student, Monsignor Ryan has been associated with Seton Hall. For the past several years he has occupied a place on the Board of Trustees.

TRUSTEES

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Hubert J. Behr

Monsignor Behr has proved his love for Seton Hall by extended efforts in his capacity as member of the Board of Trustees.

Very Rev. Msgr. William F. Lawlor
A.M., LL.D.

Monsignor Lawlor has been engrossed in educational work since his ordination and not the least of his accomplishments has been his efforts as a trustee.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Dauenhauer

Monsignor Dauenhauer is vitally interested in Seton Hall. He is frequently seen on the campus and is an active trustee.

Mr. Charles F. Henderson

The Board of Trustees is balanced by the inclusion of laity. Mr. Henderson's keen judgment has been invaluable to Seton Hall.

Hon. Peter J. Carey
K. C. St. G.

As a leader in the industrial and commercial fields, Mr. Carey represents the business man upon the Board of Trustees.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Maurice R. Spillane
A.M., LL.D., V.G.

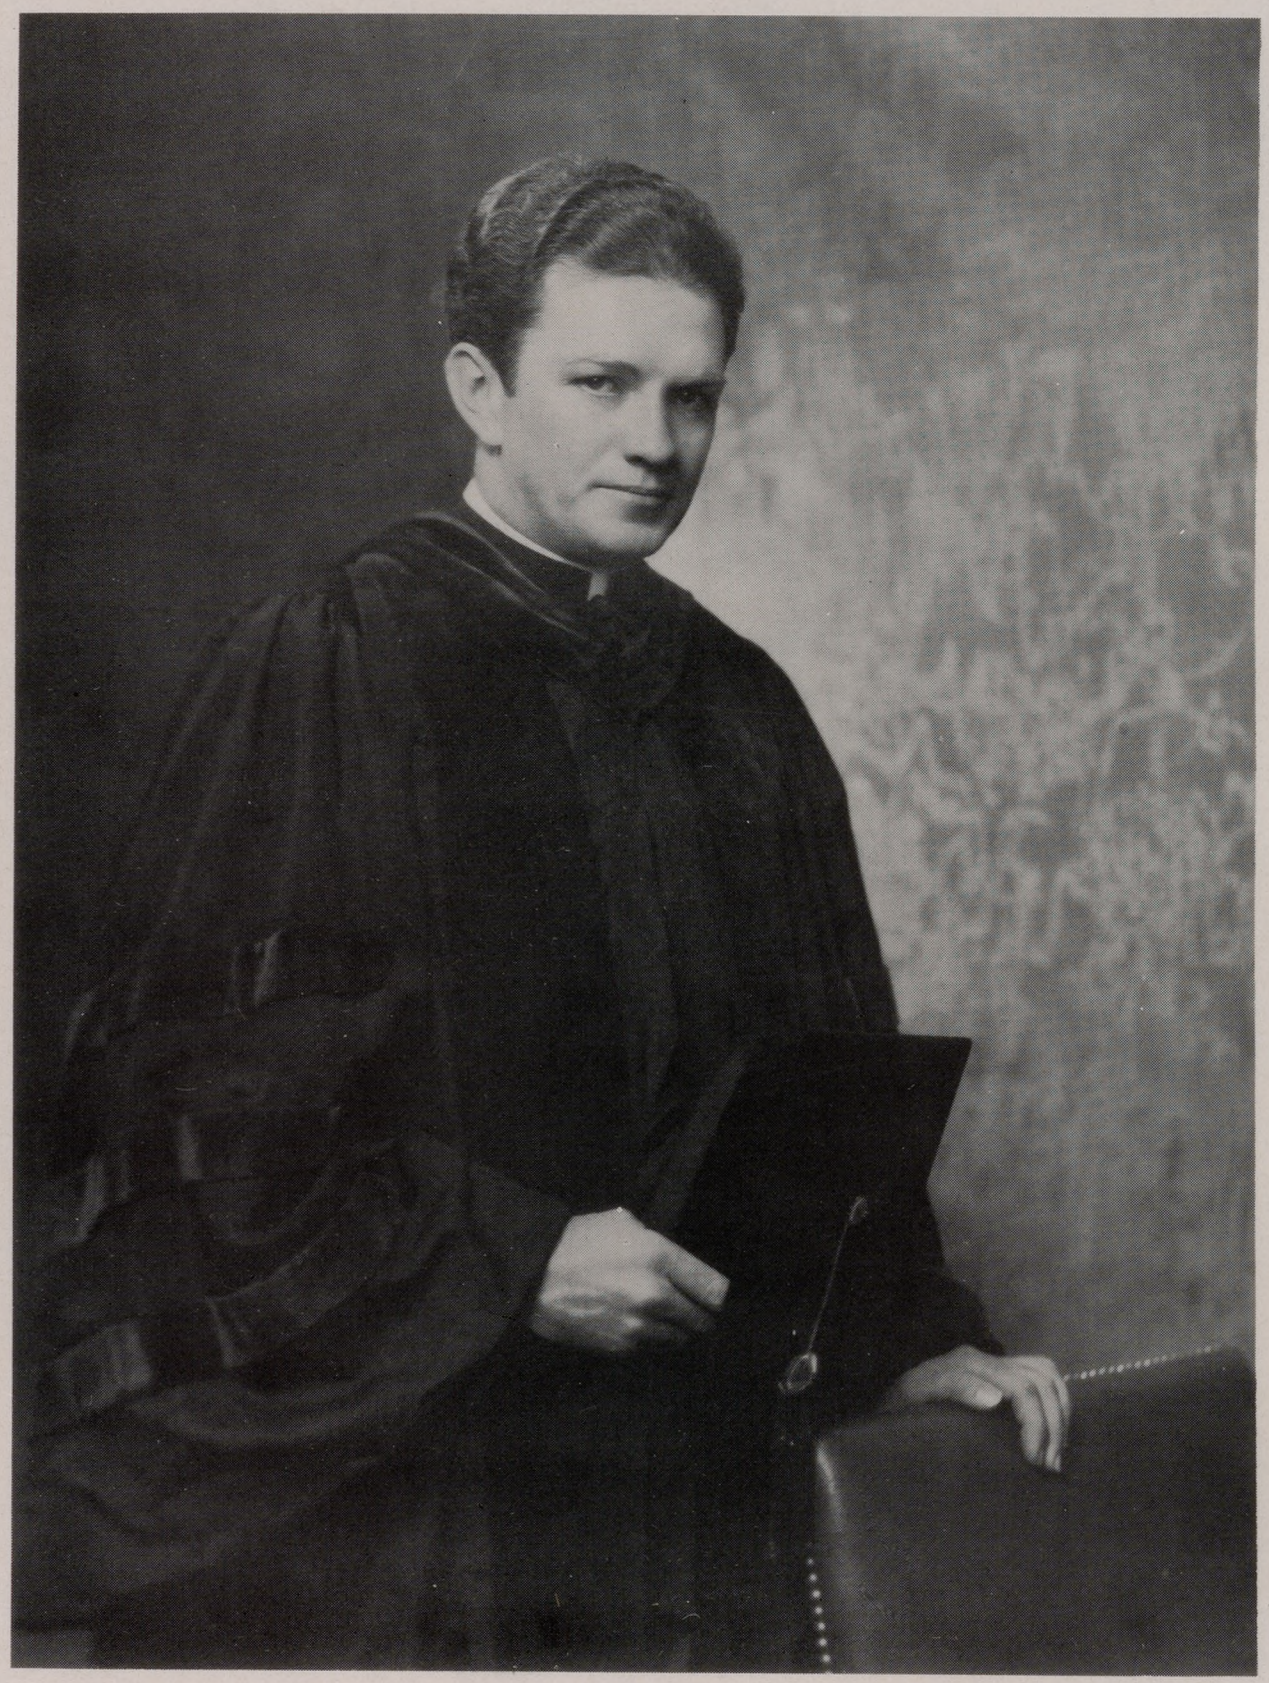

From the time of his student days until the present date, Monsignor Spillane has been close to the heart of Seton Hall. Although extremely busy as Vicar General of the Camden Diocese, he faithfully serves as a trustee.

Very Reverend James F. Kelley
Ph.D.

As president of the College, Doctor Kelley holds the important post of treasurer of the Board of Trustees. Unceasing efforts and unusual foresight have characterized his work in this capacity.

SETON

President and Treasurer

Very Reverend James F. Kelley, A. M., Ph. D.

It is the consensus of opinion that Seton Hall has progressed rapidly in every respect under the guiding hand of Doctor Kelley. He has personally improved the academic standing of the school; he has encouraged athletics and social activities by his frequent attendance. His every energy is directed toward the advancement of Seton Hall. Although necessarily a very busy man, Doctor Kelley always spares time for a cheery greeting and a friendly chat with everyone. He is one of the youngest college presidents in the country and, it is generally agreed, the best.

For unselfish devotion and service to Seton Hall, we respect you, Doctor Kelley.

HALL

Vice-President and Dean

Reverend James A. Hamilton, A.M., S.T.B.

As Vice-president and Dean, Father Hamilton represents the educational policies of the College to the student body. Year after year, he personally supervises the selection of courses for the entire school and his analytical mind is skilled in grasping the essence of a situation and disregarding unimportant details. The quotation "a just man" may well be applied to Father who, although a strict disciplinarian, is broadminded enough to make allowances for the human element in every occurrence. A great educator, he has devoted many years of his life to the mental and moral development of the youth entrusted to his guidance. Although our gratitude is incomparable to his efforts, we thank him and pray that God will reward him.

FACULT

Department of Biology

ALBERT P. LORZ, A.B., Ph.D.
Head of the Department

REV. MICHAEL I. FRONCZAK,
A.B., A.M., A.M.

Major study in the Biology Department prepares a student for secondary school teaching or graduate work. No amount of effort is spared to make these courses as comprehensive as possible.

Department of Business Administration

LAWRENCE P. McGRATH,
B.S., M.S., A.M., Ph.D.,
Head of the Department

ALBERT H. MARVILL,
B.S.

HARRISON G. STERNER,
B.C.S., A.M.

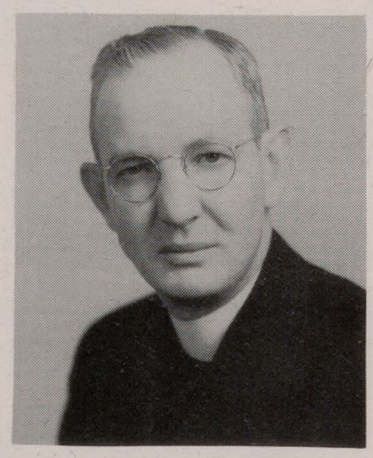

The newest department at Seton Hall has rapidly become one of the most popular. The courses offered provide everything necessary for the prospective business man.

Department of Classical Languages

Classical languages form a sturdy foundation for a liberal arts course. This department of Seton Hall denies that the study of classical languages is dying out and emphasizes the fact that such a background is necessary for true culture.

JAMES F. O'DONNELL,
A.B., A.M., Ph.D.,
Head of the Department

Head of the Department

FELIX M. ITALIANO,
B.S., M.S.

This department teaches the theories of Mathematics and then puts them into practice. Evidence of this is the preparation by students of statistical data necessary for the administration of the College.

Department of Modern Languages

REV. JOHN L. McNULTY,
A.B., A.M., Ph.D.,
Diplome de L'Unuiversite de Lille
Head of the Department

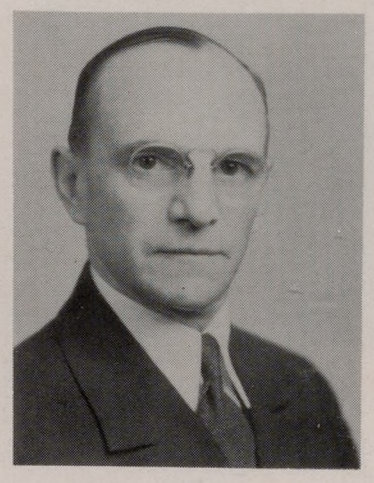

REV. JOHN J. ANSBRO, A.B.

The Department of Modern Languages does not merely teach the mechanics of a language. The background of a tongue, the stories and customs of the modern country, and the life and literature of the people are also considered to make a well-rounded course of study.

Department of Music

GODFREY M. MEYER, A.B.

The Department of Music was organized and is maintained at Seton Hall College for two main purposes, one educational, the other entertainment. It has fulfilled its reasons for existence completely.

Dept. of Health and Physical Education

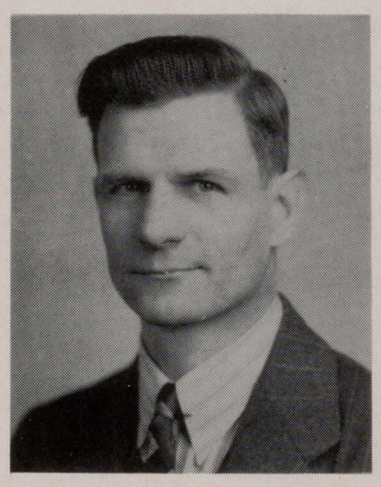

A sound mind must have a strong body. Through the extensive facilities of the new gymnasium and competent teachers, Seton Hall gives each man the opportunity to develop himself physically and to prepare himself to teach others the theories of physical education.

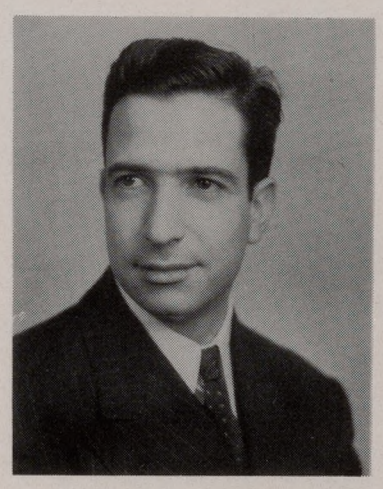

GERALD I. CETRULO,

GEORGE E. MIELE,
B.P.E., A.M.

JOHN R. REITEMEIER, B.S.

Department of Physical Sciences

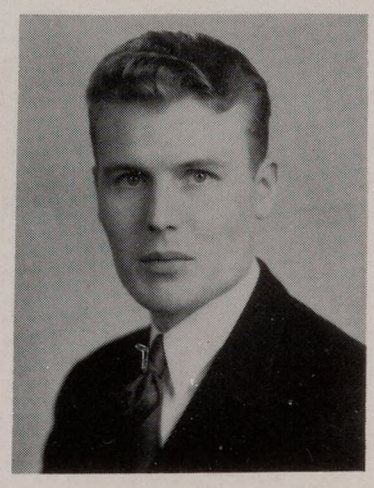

A compliment to the Department of Physical Sciences is the number of graduates each year who enter the foremost medical schools in the country. The department offers a balanced curriculum to the prospective medical student and the prospective industrial scientist.

REV. ADRIAN A. MAINE,
A.B., A.M.,
Head of the Department

FREDERICK A. CASSIDY,
B.S., M.S.

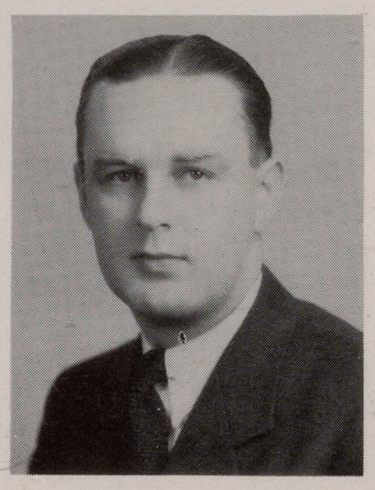

FRANCIS X. THOMSON,
A.B., M.S.

Department of Philosophy and Religion

In these days of conflicting beliefs and theories, a sound foundation of Catholic theology and philosophy is a necessary requisite for a good life. A full curriculum of these studies is therefore a requirement for a degree from Seton Hall.

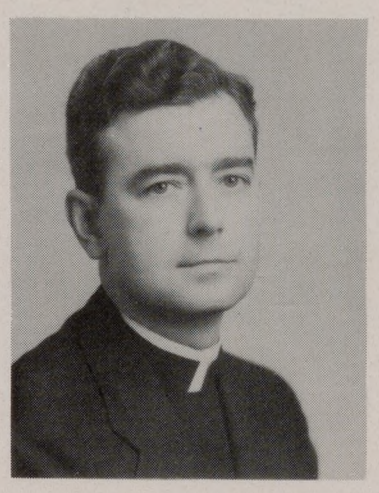

REV. HAROLD J. DILGER

Department of Social Studies

Without a thorough comprehension of past events, theories and practices, we cannot fully understand our present day political problems. This is recognized by the Department of Social Studies and each student is required to obtain a firm foundation in this science.

REV. JOSEPH H. BRADY,
A.B., A.M., S.T.D., A.M., Ph.D.
Head of the Department

GEORGE W. KING, JR.,
A.B., A.M., LL.B., J.S.D.

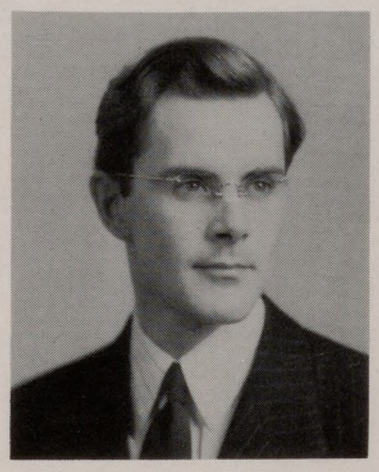

JAMES A. O'CONNELL,
A.B., A.M.

Department of Discipline

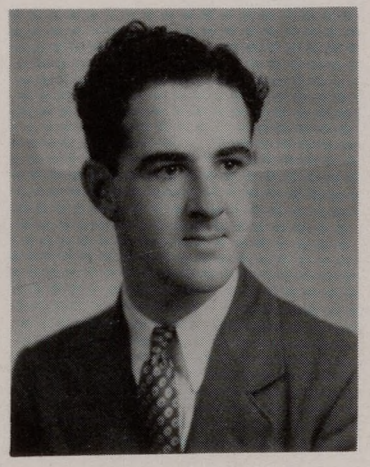

The age-old problem of discipline of both day students and boarders must still be faced. It is the accomplishment of this department to maintain control of the student body and yet retain their good will.

AMONG those things most cherished by the Class of '41 are the countless gifts which Archbishop Walsh has made to our scholastic life. Through his own valuable experience as student and cleric, he has seen the need of continual advancement in a well rounded educational program.

The introduction of new courses with a constantly increased faculty composed of most outstanding and learned professors, together with recognition by the highest scholastic accrediting agencies in the nation, are but a few of the benefits for which we are indebted to our benevolent shepherd. May this book ever serve as a joyful reminder of those invaluable gifts.

BOOK TWO

WHEN the purple haze of the surrounding mountains fades into the shadows of evening, and the setting sun looks for the last time upon us as undergraduates, we will, each one of us, pause a moment in contemplation. Our emotions will be as mingled as the colors in the horizon. For the days that were, passed by too quickly, and the days that are to be, are vague in their outlines.

An era is over. The transition comes on the wings of night. The toga slips inperceptably from our shoulders as a feeling of trust and security steals over us. Alma Mater has prepared us well.

The towered halls of Setonia tumble into the realm of memory. Yes, each one of us will pause in contemplation—our yesterdays were happy, our tomorrows confident.

Moderator

As moderator of the Class of '41, Father Carey filled his position admirably well. The "impetus-in-chief" of many of the activities, Father Carey had the unusual ability to direct diverse elements in the class into one all-successful channel. Father Carey was amazingly active but always had a moment for a word with you—a quiet smoke too.

Our thanks are in the terms of the success we achieved under his direction.

Junior Night 3; Physical Education Club 3, 4; Intramural Athletics 3, 4.

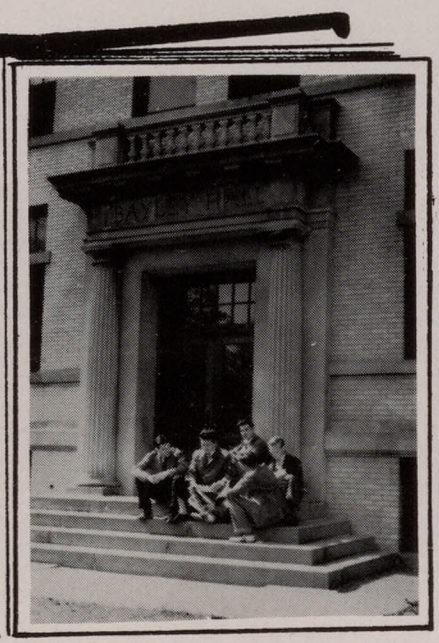

From Panzer College he transferred his allegiance to the White and Blue. Steadfast and open, his attributes make mockery of words.

Nor satisfied with the advancement and recognition which his untiring zeal has brought to our College, Archbishop Walsh is constantly striving for new goals to achieve in our behalf.

Already his plans and ideas for the future of Seton Hall are well known. His interest in her undergraduates is boundless. We cannot help but feel something of a separation from the educational influence shown by this admirable educator.

BOOK THREE

SETON HALL seeks first to fit men for the universal job of living and then for specific jobs. To this end it has planned programs for each undergraduate class. Beginning with the Freshmen Class, Seton Hall starts the process of moulding boys into young men. In the Sophomore Year the results of the program become more apparent, and in the Junior Year, with the introduction of the student to the important study of Philosophy, the job is well on its way to completion. The finishing touches and final polishing are applied in the Senior Year. Thus, from the new material of a Freshman comes the finished product of the Senior. In this section, devoted to the Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors, we see the plan in several aspects of its development.

Underclassmen

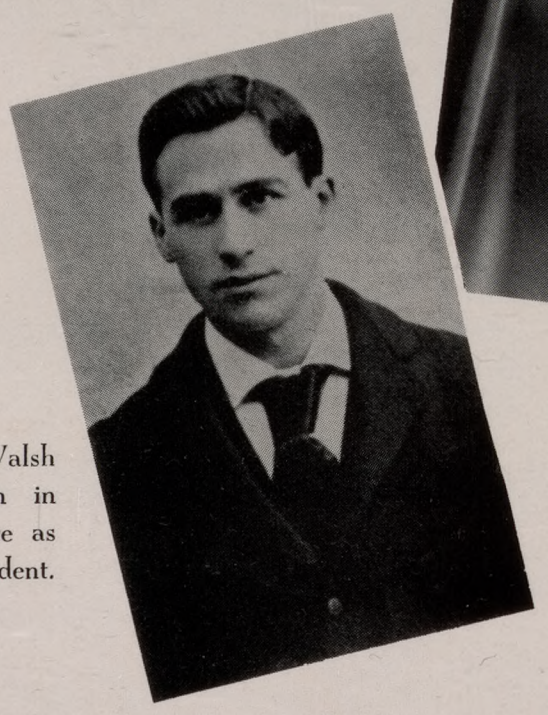

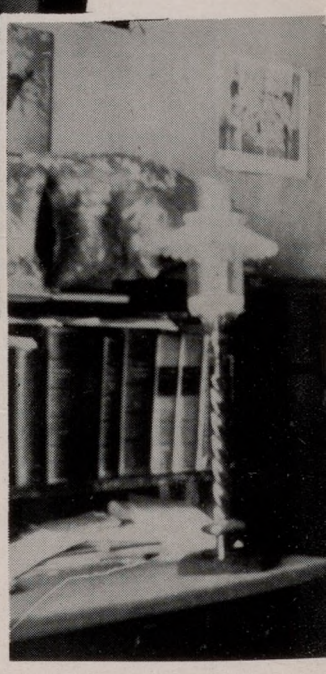

Garbed in his ecclesiastical robes and wearing the Pallium.

As newly consecrated third Bishop of the Diocese of Trenton, July 25, 1918.

Son of the late Thomas Joseph Walsh and Ellen Curtin Walsh, born in Parkers Landing, Pa., shown here as Wellsville, N. Y., High School Student.

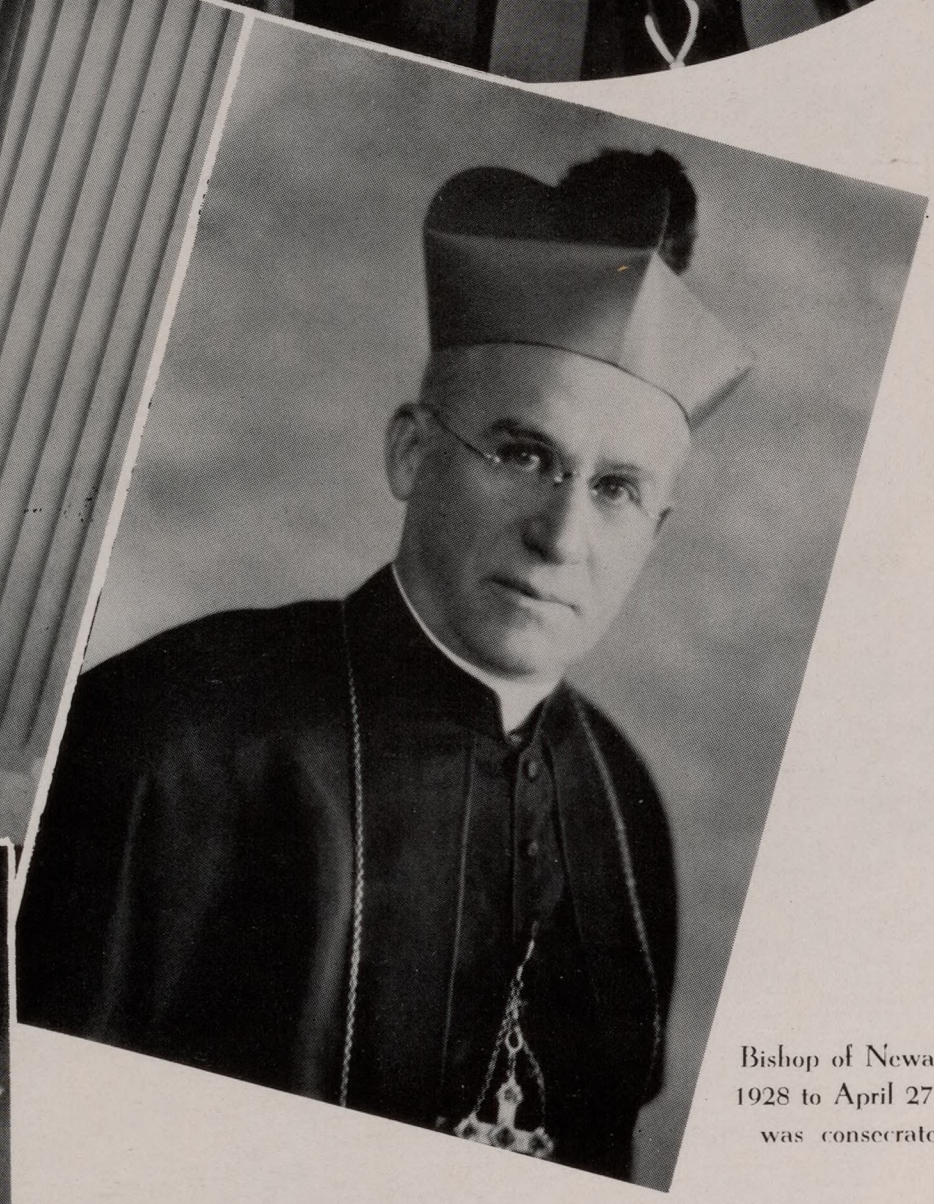

As a Seminarian at the College and Seminary of St. Bonaventure's, Allegheny, N. Y. He later attended the University of St. Apollinaris, the pontifical Roman Seminary, Rome, Italy, where he received his degrees of S.T.D., and J.C.D.

The Most Reverend
Thomas Joseph Walsh, S.T.D., J.C.D.
Archbishop of Newark

Celebrating his Silver Jubilee of Ordination to Priesthood.

Bishop of Newark from May 1, 1928 to April 27, 1938, when he was consecrated archbishop.

Appointed chancelor of the Diocese of Buffalo five months after his ordination, a post he held for eighteen years.

CLASS MODERATORS

DR. GEORGE W. KING, JR.
Moderator of Junior Class

In Doctor George W. King, Jr., we have a man who has made a success of his chosen profession—Law. He gave unstintingly of his knowledge and experience for the benefit of the students of Seton Hall.

REV. JOHN J. ANSBRO
Moderator of Sophomore Class

The Sophomores chose wisely their moderator, Father John J. Ansbro, Professor of Italian and Philosophy. His ready wit always carries with it a wise thought or a bit of excellent advice.

MR. JAMES A. O'CONNELL
Moderator of Freshman Class

Mr. James A. O'Connell, moderator of the Freshman Class and a professor in the Department of Social Studies, is famous for his excellent work as director of the Dramatic Society.

CLASS OF 1944

FULLY cognizant of the fact that extra-curricular activities are an important part of every student's life, Archbishop Walsh has been the inspiration for, and the founder of many organizations on the campus.

His honored presence at concerts, dramatic productions, and other functions sponsored by the students is another manifestation of his boundless affection for Seton Hall. The members of the senior class fully realize that he has done much to make all our endeavors truly successful.

BOOK FOUR

A HOST of pleasant memories and thoughts attach themselves to the college clubs and organizations. Here, for the Class of '41 as for all classes, extra-curricular life on the campus centered. Here collegian met collegian on the ground of common interest and fellowship. Here "like-men" rubbed shoulders and talked shop, and here contacts were made, experiences shared, and friendships deepened. Here, in short, was the spice and flavor of college life.

This section attempts to depict the panorama of Setonia's clubs and organizations in '41. Through pen and camera, it surveys the one hundred and one activities and the contributions of campus groups, at the same time it tells in great part the recent history of Seton Hall and of the Class of '41.

Organizations

Laying the cornerstone of the new Major Philosophical and Theological Seminary of the Immaculate Conception, Darlington, N. J.

Pontificating at the Decoration Day Mass of the Archdioceson Demonstration of Liturgical Music sung by a Choir of six thousand Parochial School Children.

The Archbishop and other dignitaries at the cornerstone laying of the new auditorium-gymnasium.

At the first annual convention of the blind held in Saint Patricks Cathedral, Newark.

At the display of Christmas toys to be distributed by the Mt. Carmel Guild of Newark.

At the Broadcasting Studio inaugurating the Fund Raising Drive for the Immaculate Conception Seminary and Church of Christ the King, Darlington, N. J.

The archbishop, priests and loyal assistants about to serve aged guests of the Little Sister of the Poor, Newark, on the Feast of St. Joseph.

Presentation from his loyal clergy upon his elevation to the Archbishopric.

At the 1940 campaign meeting of the Mount Carmel Guild, Newark.

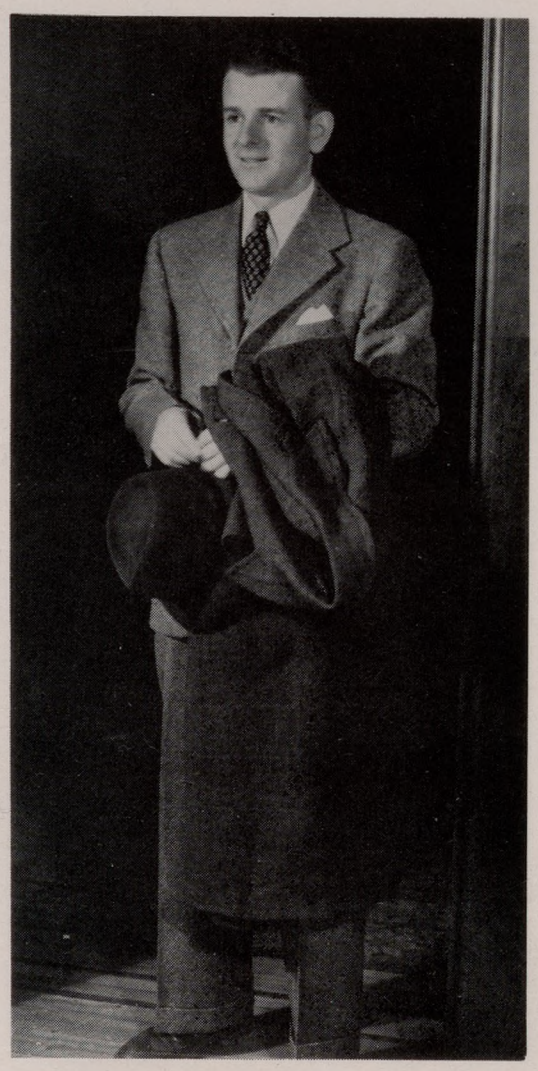

Receiving a plaque from Rev. James A. Carey on behalf of the alumni at the testimonial dinner tendered him on November 28, 1940.

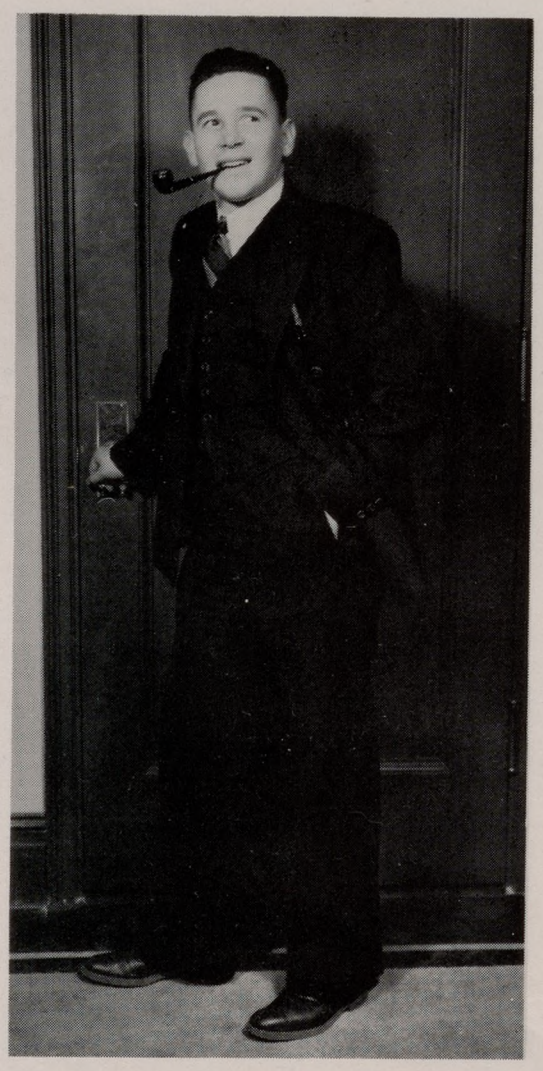

REV. JAMES A. CAREY
Moderator

It was natural that the Class of '41 should turn to Father Carey for guidance in the production of the White and Blue. He has long been an active leader and guide in campus life, and his experience in management, his appreciation of the human element, and his ability to "get things done" are a singular combination. To him the White and Blue owes much.

OOK STAFF

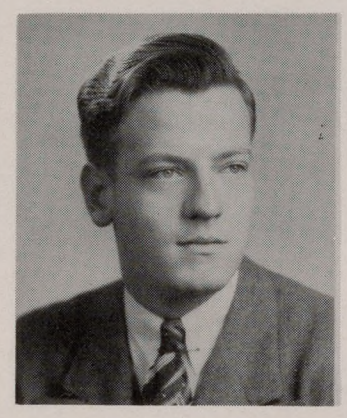

It all really started back in November 1939, with the announcement of the appointment of Jim Flynn as Editor, Val Farley as Managing Editor, and Joe MacMahon as Business Manager. Responsibility for the project was shouldered, and the White and Blue for '41 became more than mere fantasy. Shortly thereafter, Rev. James A. Carey accepted the post of moderator, and the preliminary pen and pencil work and financial budgeting was begun. The printer was selected. Tedious page planning proceeded slowly during the summer months of 1940 while the college vacationed. Business meanwhile studied ways and means, and in the fall of the year launched an intensive drive for advertisers. Staff appointments were made at the same time, and paper really began to rattle. Ideas, practical and impractical bubbled over, and enthusiasm ran high. Class meetings were turned into sweatbox sessions. For weeks, the staff lived for the White and Blue, studying printer's samples, pounding type, snapping candids, chasing ads, and laboring in ways large and small at putting the book together. Editors worked and worried. Business scratched a collective brow and with unparalleled wizardry, saw the thing through.

As the man with the red pencil, Father Feeley played an essential if silent part in the making of The Setonian each week. Few critics have understood so well the task involved, or played the role with such tact, discernment, and skill.

In '40-'41 the Setonian went modern in its format and typographical set-up with everything from lead-story to the Chesterfield ad undergoing a pleasant face lifting. But mechanical changes were not all. Under able editorship, the Setonian, each Friday, presented a lively, up-to-date resumé of current news and facts roundabout the campus. A greater "Hearin' There", a pungent "Cutting-Up", and a diverting "In Passing" flourished among the columns. Setonian sportsmen did honors "Walking the Plank" each week on page three. But the Setonian's scoop-of-the-year was the special feature edition published in June, 1940, at the request of the Department of Student Council.

The new staff of Juniors was elected and took over the editorial posts at the end of January, 1941.

THE Council worked without publicity and fanfare, but its activities were many. As in the past, it performed its functional duty as intermediary between student and faculty with skill, though the going was not always smooth. The organization endeared itself to the hearts of "day-hops" by its valiant defense of the mailing privilege and drew fire from the "blue-caps" for its codification of Freshman Rules. Proper control of automobile traffic on the campus proved to be one of its greatest problems. The Council assisted at Freshman Orientation and directed Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior Class Elections.

Toward the close of the year, a Council luncheon which featured several noted speakers was held for the first time in Council history.

THE A CAPPELLA CHOIR, under the direction of Godfrey Meyer, is composed of day scholar aspirants to the priesthood. As their name indicates, they sing without the aid of musical accompaniment. They appeared at all the noon day devotions and received campus acclaim for their work. Especially were they praised for their renditions during the St. Joseph's Novena. Presenting a program of varied sacred melodies and chants, the choir has established during the year a standard for singing, and a tradition difficult to surpass.

THE Glee Club offered recreation and pleasure combined with the stimulation and enjoyment of music and song. As a result, it remained one of the most active and outstanding organizations on the campus. The program included engagements at metropolitan colleges, among which were Caldwell College, College of Notre Dame (L. I.), Georgian Court, Mt. St. Vincent, Chestnut Hill, Immaculata, and College Misericordia. The Annual Spring Concert was held for the first time in the Elizabethan Room of the Essex House in Newark on the evening of May 9th, and provided surpassingly fine entertainment for a large audience.

In having Father Dilger as their moderator the Glee Club and Schola Cantorum are indeed fortunate. By his enthusiasm he creates a spirit such as exists in no other organization on the campus. He spares no effort to make these organizations the huge successes that they are.

SCHOLA CANTORUM

The Schola was ever a welcome guest. At Holy Name rallies, parish gatherings, Glee Club programs, and collegiate functions throughout the metropolitan area, the group provided surpassing entertainment with song in the lighter vein. Capable renditions of popular tunes drew prolonged applause everywhere. A gifted baton, a studied talent, and original interpretations distinguished the organization among musical clubs. Again this year, as always, the Schola ably served its purpose as Setonia's blue-jacketed embassy of goodwill.

STAGEHANDS fumbled with the complicated backstage rigging of the new Auditorium-Gymnasium. Property men schemed. Make-up men splashed paint, and the cast sweated over difficult lines. All this in the Dramatic Club's production of the two "hit" plays for 1940-41, The Monsignor's Hour and The Whole Town's Talking.

The annual Christmas production played a one-night stand on the evening of December 16 with marked success. An impressed audience listened in hushed silence to Emmett Lavery's plea for peace. Tom Higgins starred. Mr. James O'Connell directed.

For its Spring offering, the Club chose "The Whole Town's Talking," a rip-snorting comedy in three acts by Loos and Sullivan. The whole town's still talking about it.

The Seton Junior League filled the feminine roles in both plays. Rev. Thomas J. Cunningham was moderator of the organization during the year.

SETONIA'S platform logicians established an enviable record in intercollegiate debating with a long list of decisions over major college teams. A veteran squad of Seniors, backed by an eloquent group of underclassmen, stumped the boards with Fordham University, St. Peter's, Drew, Columbia University, N. Y. U., Rider, Georgian Court, Seton Hill, Essex Junior College, Montclair State Teachers, and C. C. N. Y. Over a dozen local engagements were filled. Argument centered around the national topics, "Resolved: the nations of the western hemisphere should form a permanent union for defense against foreign aggressors" and "Resolved: the United States should conscript industry during its present defense program." Brownson argued pro and con, but always with vigor, briskness, and characteristic wit.

KINGSMEN

AMONG students of law, it's the Kingsmen. In its second year, this honorary and active organization of pre-law students (named after Dr. George W. King, its moderator) met regularly to discuss topics of past and current interest in the profession and to sample the workings of legal procedure. In general, the organization sought to encourage among its members a lively interest in things legal. A program of scheduled student reports served as a means to this end.

The Kingsmen welcomed to the Hall and entertained a number of guest speakers during the course of the year.

WEDNESDAY morning "rush" became more than ever a Setonian tradition this year as the Snack-Shack breakfast line grew longer week by week. Under the red and gold banner of the Knights, an average of some three hundred students, "day-hops" and boarders alike, received Holy Communion each Wednesday in the college chapel. The K of S Bulletin continued publication of comments on religious duties and news of the organization, with a special printed edition at Christmas. The Knights conducted their annual drive for discarded magazines which were shipped to the "boys at Dix." Gold attendance pins were distributed to members of the organization.

THE student honor society, the Cross and Crescent, marked its third year of existence in 1941. Again the membership was small and restricted to students of the college who possessed outstanding scholastic ability, high personal qualifications, and were active in extra-curricular activities about the college campus. An average of 85% or over and no grade below 75% was the first requisite for membership.

Keys in gold bearing the insignia of the organization, the cross and crescent imprinted on a scroll, were presented to new members at the annual Junior Night festivities in March, 1940.

"MEDICINE is a dry subject, sir", Hippocrates, the ancient Greek physician, once said. But the Pre-Medical Seminar holds the contrary, and this year again sought to encourage among its members, as well as among those who were not members, a deeper appreciation for materia medica. A series of eleven lectures on surgery, communicable diseases, army-medicine and similar subjects was sponsored by the organization and presented to interested groups of students in the Little Theatre. The Seminar sought out eminent physicians of Essex and neighboring counties and enlisted their support for the lecture forums. Slides and motion pictures accompanied many of the lectures and contributed to their popularity among lay as well as pre-medical scholars.

"Some call it growth force, or bathmic force or plasmic energy; others entelechy, or vital direction, or the something over."

"I agree. But what I spoke of was the life-principle as Aristole defined it . . . . ."

All of which is common table talk when the Psychology Club gives its collective mind an airing. The organization met frequently and regularly in Bayley Hall, having undergone a thorough reorganization under its new moderator in the fall of the year. Talk ranged round such practical topics as "Psychology in Education", "Business", and "Medicine". The ardent enthusiasm with which meetings were conducted indicated that things of the mind and soul can be the source of pleasant and lasting conversation. Membership in the club was again restricted to upperclassmen who were registered in philosophy courses.

THE influence of mathematics in modern life and the modern world is powerful and deep. With this realization in mind, a group of Setonia students, anxious for a greater insight into the nature of the subject, banded together in October of 1940 to form the Mathematics Club. The organization engaged at once in an active program designed to stimulate an interest in the lives and in the work of the great mathematicians of the past. It also provided members with an opportunity to propose, discuss, and solve original problems. Bi-weekly meetings were held in Alumni Hall. The feature of these meetings was the presentation by members of papers dealing with various phases of mathematics. Members of the faculty were frequently called upon to speak at the meetings.

BAND

A PERFORMANCE on the stage of Proctor's Theatre in Newark featured the activity of the band in '40-'41. Before a capacity house, Setonia's instrumentalists did a commendable job at the victory rally which followed the Villanova basketball game. In it's fourth year, the unit was again increased in size. The addition of a special drum and bugle corps to the regular band raised the total membership to sixty. The St. Patrick's Day and Holy Name parades were special events on a program which included engagements at college basketball and prep football games as well as other memorable sports events. The band was guided always by the realization that good music is a product of hard labor and intentional skill.

THE Bayley Society again represented Seton Hall at the meetings of the National Federation of Catholic College Students and at various other intercollegiate conferences. The unique task for which it was organized was ably fulfilled. New committees this year undertook special tasks. An "Eastern Rites Committee" studied and sought to propagate wider knowledge and appreciation of the tradition and practices of the Churches following the Eastern Rite, while a "Soldiers Aid Committee" contacted army chaplains and was thereby able to render valuable services to Catholic men encamped at Fort Dix. The society likewise continued to publicize the Catholic viewpoint on national and international events.

PRESS CLUB

In September, the Press Club moved into spacious new quarters in the Auditorium-Gymnasium, and having filled the ink-well, changed the typewriter ribbon, and scattered a few nondescript papers, it settled down to the pleasant task of pounding out the "stuff." The club, acting for the Department of Public Relations, continued to handle Seton Hall news releases to local papers and press. Through its hands passed much of the "news" of Seton Hall Activities.

The annual Catholic Intercollegiate Press Survey was held this year under the auspices of the club. Catholic colleges throughout the country submitted newspapers and literary magazines to the judgment of the survey board and merited awards on the basis of format, content, and general excellence. The Press Club also acted at the meeting of Catholic Educators and Teachers held at Seton Hall in the Fall of the year.

STUDENT CRUSADE for Americanism

In the fall of this year, the Student Crusade for Americanism began a series of public "Town Hall" meetings scheduled for each Tuesday noon in Bayley Hall. Opportunity for wide-open discussion on such topics as "Aid to Britain", "The Politicial Bankruptcy of France", and "The Lend-Lease Bill" was provided. The idea rapidly became popular and numerous groups of students were soon gathering regularly under the auspices of the Crusade. Vehement expression mingled with frequent cries of "Objection" and "Mr. Chairman" and indicated the enthusiasm with which the meetings were conducted.

The Crusade continued its policy of bringing guest speakers to the Hall, among whom were numbered several prominent politicial figures.

BAYLEY-SETON LEAGUE

REV. JOHN F. RYAN

THE Bayley-Seton League of Seton Hall College represents an organization whose only aim is to assist the students of Seton Hall in their spiritual, cultural, and social aims. There has long been an awareness for the need of such an organization, but such a need did not materialize until these interested women, under the guidance of their moderator, Father Ryan, formed the Bayley-Seton League modeled on the Philomatheia Club of Boston. As active as any campus organization, the members of this League have evidenced their desire to help us by material aid to the Glee Club, the Knights of Setonia, provisions for Scholarships, and capable assistance in renovating the cafeteria and dining hall.

THE Alumni Association of Seton Hall was probably unique this year due to the fact that for the first time in fifty years a priest was elected to the presidency.

By the same token this has been more than a unique year because of the alumni dinner which was tendered to his Excellency, The Most Reverend Thomas Joseph Walsh, our beloved Archbishop. The dinner was held in the new auditorium-gymnasium with 1,100 people in attendance. The dinner was sold out over a week before the date and over five hundred reservations had to be turned down. It was the greatest affair ever conducted by any organization connected with Seton Hall.

It has been the concensus of opinion that there was more activity in the alumni organization this year, what with the regular alumni dances and the Monday night get-togethers at the new gym where from two to three hundred members of the alumni would spend the evening in playing squash, basketball, billiards, and making use of the rifle range and the bowling alleys and then finishing this off with a dip in the new pool.

It is the hope of the present officers and the board of governors that this activity will continue and that the alumni association of Seton Hall will stamp itself as the most potent part of things Setonian.

In conjunction with the many phases of expansion here at Seton Hall, the young women interested in assisting this movement have organized the Seton Junior League. Thus far, these young women have distinguished themselves in the social life of the college. In proving their versatility, they have sponsored a series of lectures at which prominent Catholic leaders spoke on current topics of interest to all. Still in the period of its formation, this group has already proved itself to be an essential factor in the more rounded development of the college.

ATHLETIC activities have their value in education by contributing to the development of mind as well as the body. "As it is in the body, so it is in the mind; practice makes it what it is." It is not at all surprising that these principles have been put to practice through the endeavors of the Most Reverend Archbishop.

The expansion of intramural athletics and the completion of the new gymnasium, with its facilities for various sports, are monumental proofs of progressive educational principles.

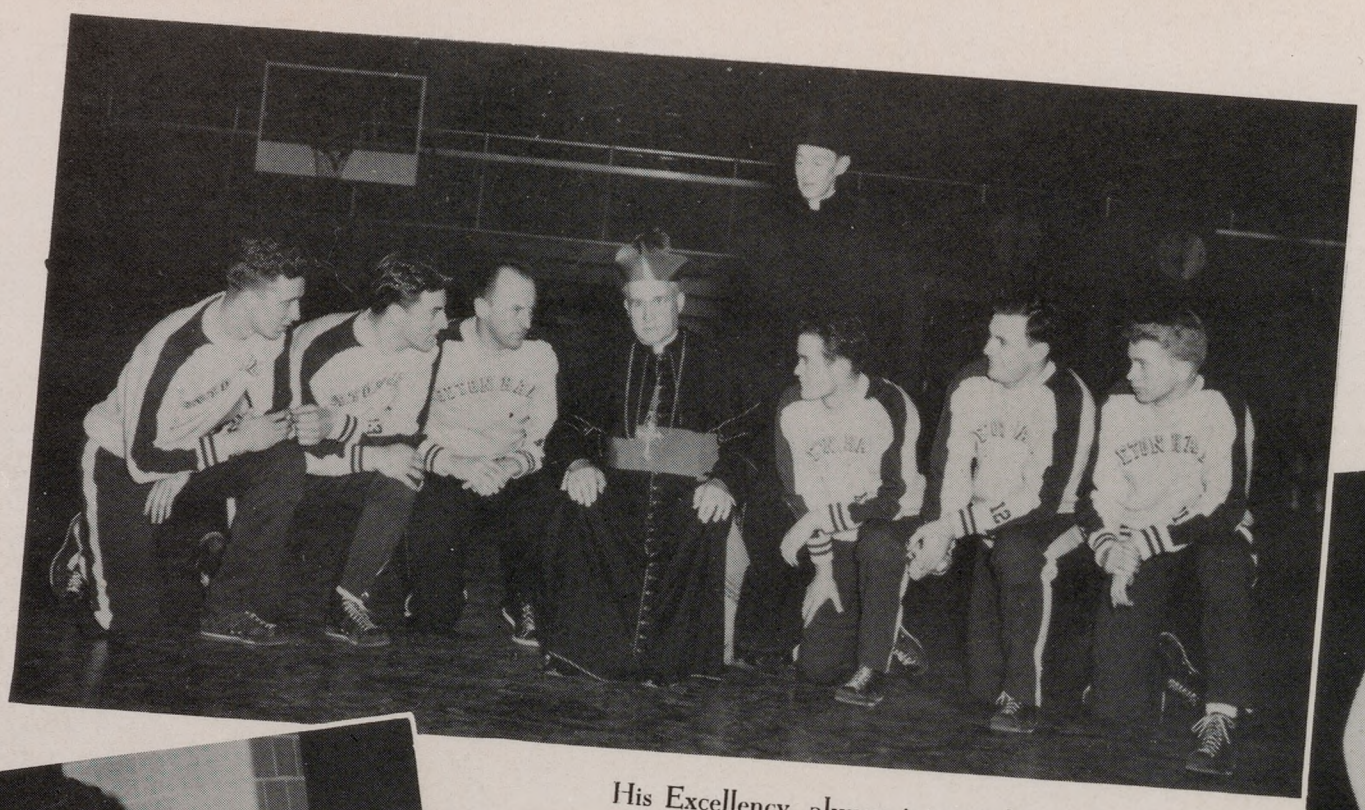

"A sound mind in a sound body" might well express the aim of Seton Hall. The task of providing the sound body falls under the province of the Athletic Association and the Department of Physical Education. Together, they endeavor to provide an opportunity for all students to participate in either Intercollegiate or Intramural athletic programs.

The center of all athletic endeavor at the Hall is, of course, the newly completed gymnasium. Here varsity Basketball, Fencing and Swimming are conducted as well as Intramural Basketball, Bowling and Squash. The purpose of athletics at Seton Hall is to provide the greatest number of participants in the greatest variety of sports.

The dean of the Pirates' coaching staff is the colorful Harry Coates. For twenty-six years Harry has been producing winners for the Hall. He and his long cigar are a landmark on the campus and may they long remain!

Bob Duffy and Bill Slack were rewarded with the co-captaincy of the track squad as a gesture of appreciation for their outstanding ability not only to run, but to set the example as ideal Setonians!

"Joe" MacMahon has been called "Harry Coates, Jr.", and we can think of no greater compliment to his ability and energy. Regardless of the weather, he can be found all year doing a fine job at the board track.

YEARLY the Athletic Association sponsors an Indoor Track Meet which far surpasses the average indoor meet. Since it is the only indoor meet in New Jersey, the directors, Fathers Lillis and Carey, assemble the outstanding competitors in the track. The result each year is the new records and upsets registered. Harry's charges won four relay crowns in this meet, thus proving the superiority of Setonia's tracksters.

This year the meet was held in Jersey City in the spacious new Armory and it proved such a success it will probably become a Hague-town feature.

THE track team has the longest and most varied of all varsity sports. Beginning with cross-country in September, the tracksters run in various meets until the winter indoor season has given way to the Penn Relay Carnival. The Coatesmen started the year off with a double victory over the Westchester State Varsity and Freshmen Cross-Country teams. Their short hill and dale season closed with the Setonians winning the Senior and Junior State AAU Championship.

The indoor season once again proved the fact that Harry always sends a well-trained team out to run. Beginning with the Millrose Meet at the Garden, they notched seven mile and two-mile crowns, as well as two Frosh victories at 1⅞ miles. The outstanding wins for the Pirates were the two mile varsity relay in the K of C meet in New York. They ran the season's fastest time at this distance as well as setting a track record of the Penn A. C. Meet.

Returning to native soil the Coatesmen annexed the State AAU Indoor diadem. Four individual championships were won by Setonians at this meet when Co-Captain Bob Duffy won the High Hurdle crown; Al Bellucci, the sixteen pound shot-put title; Bill Gannon romped home first in the 600 yard open; and frosh Bob Savetts gained the AAU 600 yard crown.

MANAGER

FRANK FAAS

Frank Faas, the man with the score-book, is another member of the very important but unknown group called "managers." He earned his job as senior manager by three long years of carrying towels, balls, equipment-trunks and dozens of other items. And we mean he "earned" it.

COACH

JOHN "HONEY" RUSSELL

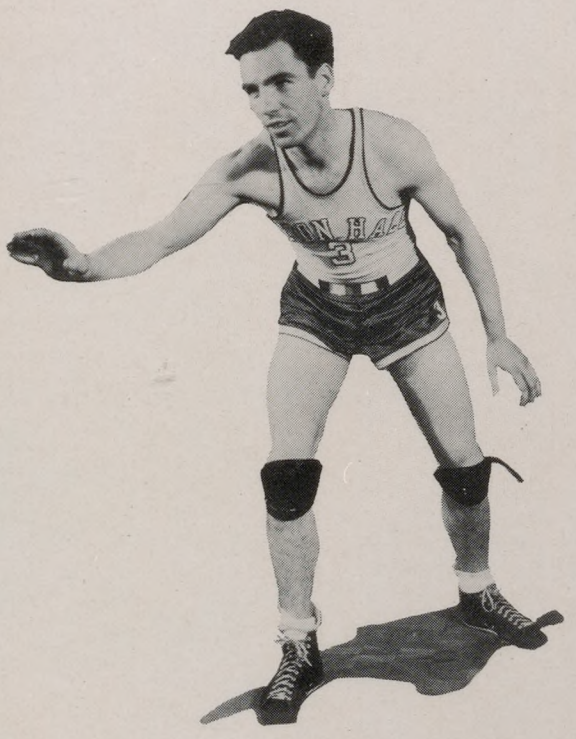

After twenty years in professional football, basketball, and baseball, John "Honey" Russell arrived on the Pirate campus five years ago. With "Honey" big time basketball came to the Hall. Each succeeding season has seen the record of "Honey's" squad improve. Topping this of course, was the two successive undefeated seasons which have brought him and the Pirates into the national circle of great teams. Retiring but effective might well describe "Honey."

TRAINER

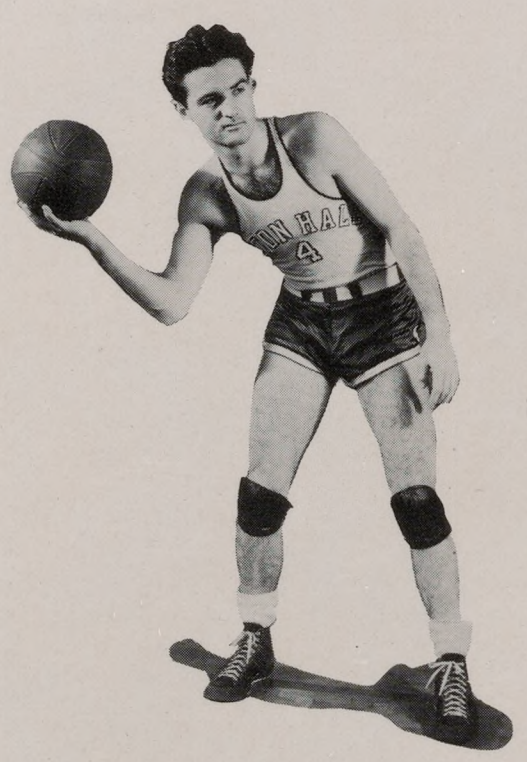

DOCTOR TURNER

The tremendous task of keeping in condition the many athletes sporting the White and Blue falls on the chubby shoulders of 'Doc' Turner. His nimble fingers are the best cure the Hall has for charley horses, strains and the numerous other injuries that beset active athletes.

Frank Delany closed a brilliant court career this season. Four seasons have seen Frank's all-out play win many a game.

Ed Ryan, another senior on the squad, has left a standard of defensive play that will stand for years. When they counted, his shots were caged!

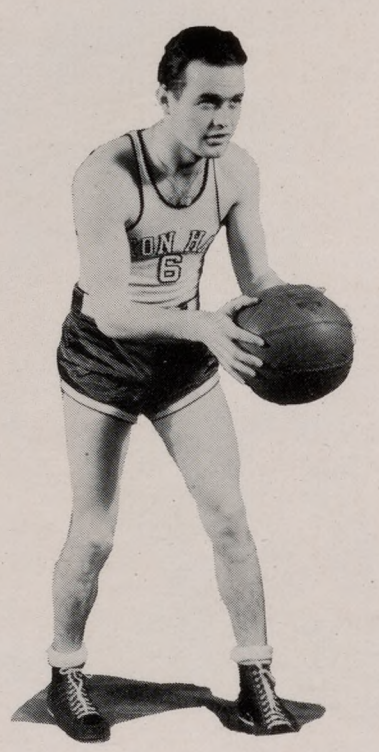

Nick Parpan closed a brilliant career with the end of the first semester of this year. His cool calculating brand of play has been the key to victory many times.

THE big guns for Honey Russell this season were his all junior combine of Holm, Fisher, Pine, Ruthenberg and and Davies. They ran their victory skein to 51 out of 52 scheduled games as Pirates. They won 13 and lost one as Frosh and have been undefeated in 38 varsity contests.

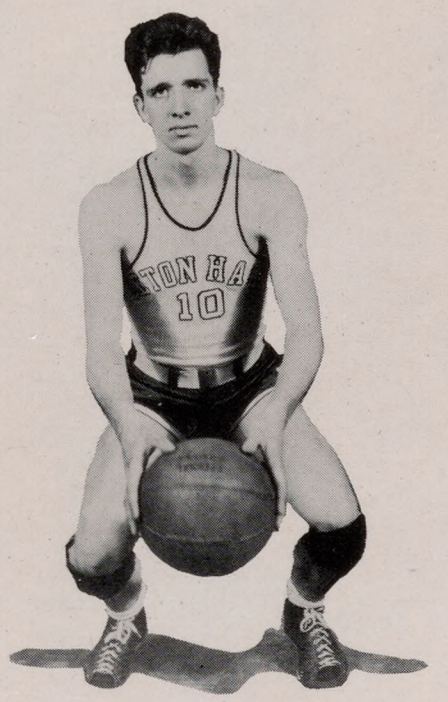

"Honey" is a firm believer in the type of substituting that sends in teams rather than single players. Hence he calls his units by letters and not as first or second team. His junior combination was his "A" team. The ball "B" team was comprised of the seniors, Ryan, Delany and Parpan, with Negretti, Studwell and Michael. They filled the valuable task of "wearing down" opponents and can be given full credit for their part in the successful season. The remaining members of the squad, Bob Pine, Behan, Scharnus, Poeltler and King were also used as shock-troops in Honey's famous "Blitz" attack, and gained the experience they needed for future Varsity play.

Bob Davies, the country's most brilliant stylist on the court. A high scorer whose assists exceed his scores, that is the greatest compliment we can give to "Li'l Abner"!

Bob Fisher, the mighty-mite of Piratedom. For three years he has proved the bigger they are, the harder they fall. Here is the most brilliant set-shot on the squad.

Ken Pine, not colorful but consistent—the hub around which the Russellmen revolve. The tributes of his teammates mean more than we can say.

Seton Hall 42 — Westchester State Teachers 19

The Pirates opened their second consecutive undefeated season with a 42-19 win over Westchester State Teachers.

Seton Hall 62 — Alumni 32

Win number twenty-four was gained over the Alumni when the Russel men romped to a 62-32 triumph.

Seton Hall 49 — Albright 44

Albright was next for "Honey's" outfit. After a hard fight, Albright succumbed to the tune of 49-44. Davies was high for the Pirates.

Seton Hall 54 — Siena 38

Siena gave the Pirates their twenty-sixth when they succumbed 54-38. The second team played brilliantly in this encounter that saw a new high reached for the Pirates.

Seton Hall 32 — Davidson College 28

Nick Parpan turned on the heat in the second canto getting ten points to topple the Davidson College five from North Carolina 32-28.

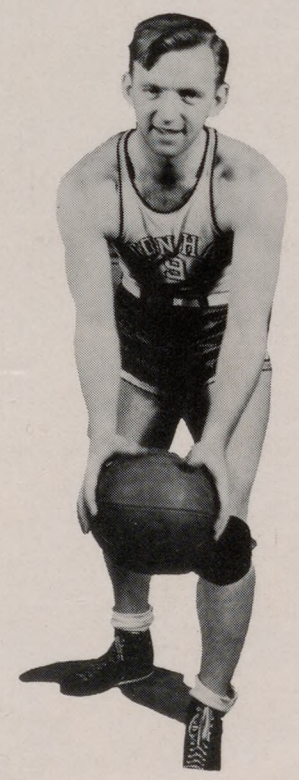

John Ruthenberg. Big hard, and brilliant best describe "Big John". When the going was tough he always swished the cords with a shot that started a Pirate rally.

Bob Holm, whose agility and tenacious drive has been a spark for the Pirate squad. He packs enough "fight" for a whole team.

Ray Studwell. "Cap", another big, rangy player, has made his presence felt for three years. He has been a standby on the "B" team all year.

Seton Hall 52 Washington College 32

A flashy Washington College quintet finally collapsed before the drive of the Hallers who gained their twenty-ninth win when a strong second half attack saw them go ahead and win 52-32.

Seton Hall 54 Davis-Elkins 30

Davis-Elkins' touring combine went down before the Hallers 54-30, as the Hall braced their attack against the next due Kansas State five.

Seton Hall 34 Kansas State 29

Ken Pine combined with "Lil' Abner" Davies to defeat Kansas State 34-29. The Pirates went ahead at the close of the first period and staved off a drive of the Wildcats to win their thirty-first.

Seton Hall 44 Illinois Wesleyan 26

Davies' brilliant team play and passing led the Hallers to a 44-26 conquest of Illinois Wesleyan. "Big John" Ruthenberg combined with "Abner" to score half the team total.

Seton Hall 41 Rider 26

After a slow start, the Russellmen defeated Rider of Trenton 41-26. Ruthenberg led the scoring with 14 points.

Bob Pine. Ken's brother and almost as good. "Bucko" can use his height and does. One of the best play makers on the Pirate team.

Vin Michael. Another player who is not appreciated in a winning season, but one who plays an important part in the moulding of such a record.

Bob Behan. A good man in the clutch; one who can move, pass and shoot with the best. He is living up to his record set in the Prep.

Seton Hall 42 Scranton University 35

Journeying away from home for the first time, the Pirates defeated the Tommies of Scranton University 42-35. This game saw the second team come into its own and topple the Purple and White before five thousand fans.

Seton Hall 41 Villanova 29

From the school's viewpoint, the outstanding game for the Pirates this year was the encounter with the Villanova Wildcats. Played before a jammed gymnasium, the Pirates, by dint of brilliant offense and an airtight defense, toppled the "Cats" from the ranks of the undefeated teams of the nation and notched their own thirty-fifth successive win. The game was marked by brillant play-making on the part of the Junior five consisting of Holm, Davies, Fisher, Pine and Ruthenberg. Once the heat was on, the whole squad played brilliant ball and avenged the first loss of "Honey's" initial Pirate Squad.

Seton Hall 45 St. Peter's 29

St. Peter's traveled to South Orange for their traditional game with the Hallers and left the court number thirty-six for the Russellmen's victory string.

Seton Hall 40 Marshall College 37

Despite a determined drive at the close by a rugged unbeaten Marshall five, the Pirates won their thirty-seventh game topping Marshall College 40-37.

Doug King. The fastest player on the squad and one of the best shots. Next year Doug will be capably replacing Delany.

Ben Scharnus. "Poppa Ben" has always been noted for hard driving basketball. Upon Russell's advice, Ben can make an opponent practically ineffective on the court. He is "Honey's" ace in the hole.

Seton Hall 30 St. Francis College 22

St. Francis College offered little opposition to the torrid Pirate five. The final gun found the Seton Hall five on top 30-22.

Seton Hall 66 St. Joseph's 48

St. Joseph's of Indiana was no match for a torrid Russell squad that saw eleven of fifteen men enter the scoring column led by Ruthenberg who hung up eighteen markers.

Seton Hall 52 Canisius 47

Brilliant play by Frank Delany in the final minutes enabled the Pirates to win the first of the now famous "Three Battles of South Orange." This time Canisius bowed 52-47.

Seton Hall 39 Scranton University 38

A victory-mad Scranton five almost upset the apple cart for the Russellmen. Save for a last minute goal by Davies and a foul by Pine, the Pirates might have lost.

Seton Hall 45 U. of Baltimore 44

The following night the Pirates closed their second unbeaten season with a thrilling 45-44 conquest of the University of Baltimore. This brilliant record resulted in a invitation to the Annual Basketball Writers' Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

George Poeltler. Another reserve that makes the Russellmen strong. George can be counted on in the clutch and is always ready to flash his superior ability.

Al Negretti is the most improved player on the Pirate squad. Under "Honey's" tutelage he has learned to use his height and weight to great advantage.

"Doc" Cetrulo is now rounding out his fourth year at the Hall, and in four years he has completed a lifetime of successfull coaching. Championships each year are the results of his able tutelage.

With the Class of 1941 fencing came to the Pirate campus. To a great majority of students and faculty members it was an unknown sport. However, shortly after their arrival they made their presence known by starting their phenomenal winning streak. The victory wave has continued, sweeping with it two Eastern Intercollegiate Championships and a smashing victory in Ohio to annex the East-West Championship. Not content with these laurels, the Cetrulo men extended an invitation to Notre Dame and North Carolina to fence in a triangular meet at Bamberger's in Newark. As before, the results proved the 'Men in White' as winning once again.

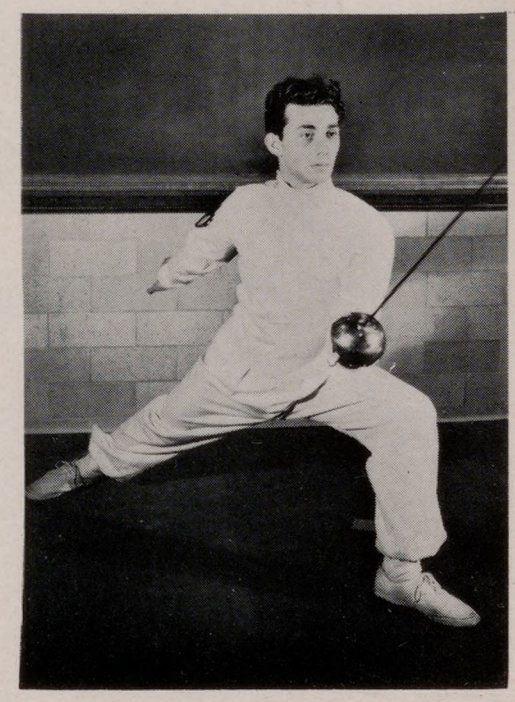

Without question, the most thrilling engagements were the Harvard matches. Twice it was the Pirates fortune to edge out the "Cantabs" 14-13, Co-captain Cetrulo providing the margin in each case.

In the swordsmen the Hall has the most succesful athletic unit in her history. Under the watchful eye of "Doc" Cetrulo, the fencers have engaged and defeated all the leading squads of the country and have brought the spotlight of the whole sports-world upon them. Unlike many other athletic endeavors, fencing requires more than strength or brawn. in fact an ability to concentrate and co-ordinate all faculties is the most important requirement for success in this ancient sport.

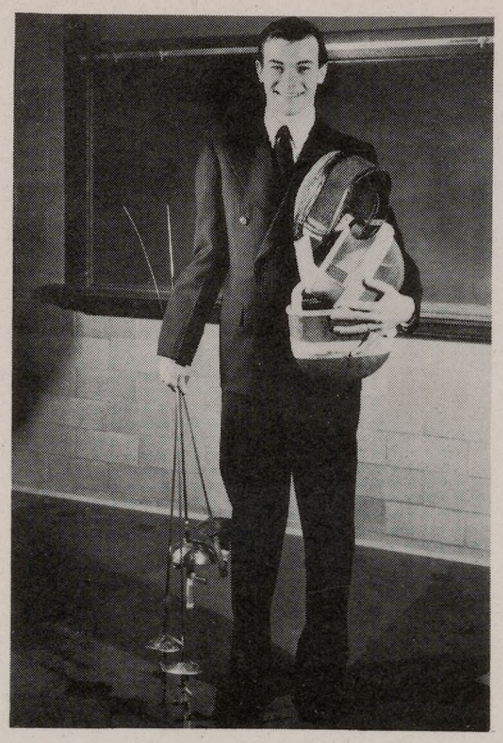

This year marks the swansong for Co-Captains Cetrulo and Riccardi as well as Pat Marzulli and George Boutsikaris. To say they've made their mark is a poor way of stating a true fact.

D. CETRULO

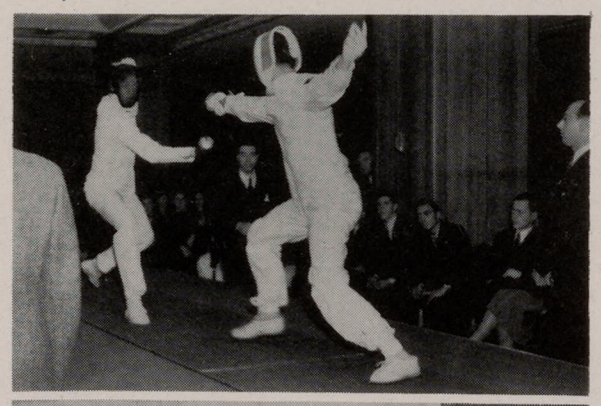

P. RICCARDI

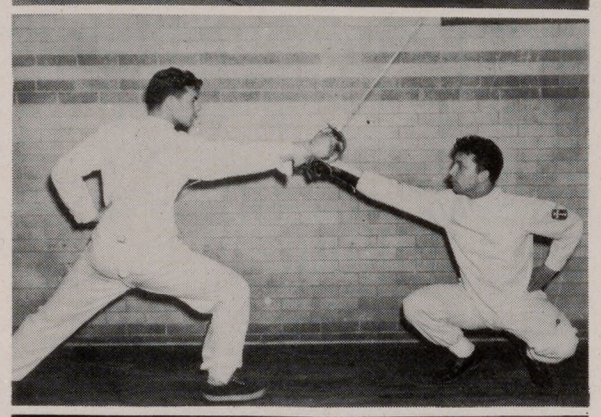

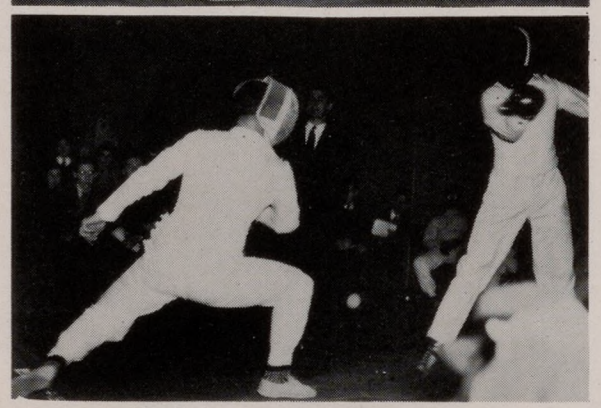

"Pete" Coughlin is the most important assistant that "Doc" Cetrulo has. He sees to it that the "men-in-white" have masks, weapons, towels and the sundry other details necessary for their sport.

A coach's relative must be capable to earn a place on his squad, but to be captain is recognition of outstanding ability. Such is the case with affable Dean Cetrulo now in his fourth year as Co-Captain with retiring Paul Riccardi. Paul never mentions his fencing—it speaks for itself.

BASEBALL

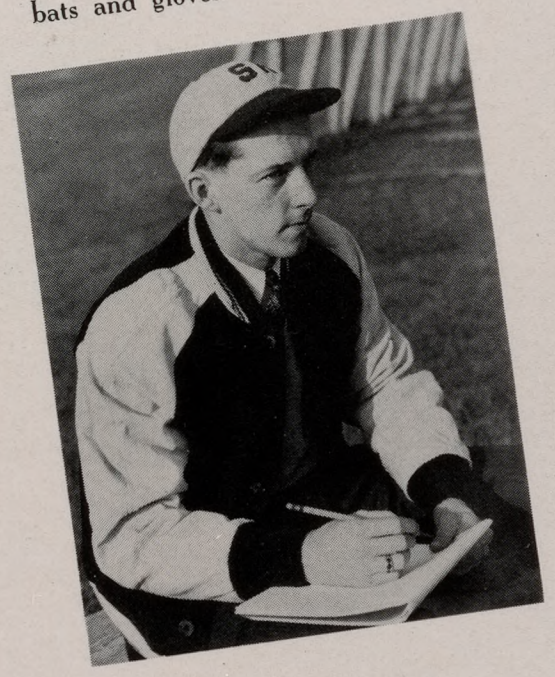

Al Mamaux, the popular diamond mentor, has, after twenty-seven years in baseball, lost none of the love of the game he had as a rookie. This contagious spirit of Al's has done much toward producing his outstanding clubs each year.

The Mamauxmen this year are comprised of veterans at all spots save that of the initial sack, and this is being capably filled by John Ruthenberg. The brilliant infield of Davies, Booth and Welaj seems set for another good year and this is the only fact that keeps Doug King from breaking into the infield.

Bill Cavanaugh and Harry Rowett will divide the catching duties, with Johnny Konowitz as reserve backstop. "Bull" Brydon and Frank Delany will return to the outfield with Jim Lacika who has won the spot vacated by the ailing Bob Gendron. Steve Nagy and Ken Pine will carry the main weight of the pitching chores aided by Joe McDermott and Bucko Pine.

Al has also agreed this year to experiment with batting helmets in the interest of making baseball a better game.

John "Spike" O'Neil climaxes a hectic and active career at Setonia by filling the honorable task of baseball manager—and he fills it well. Under his watchful eye go hits, runs and errors, to say nothing of balls, bats and gloves.

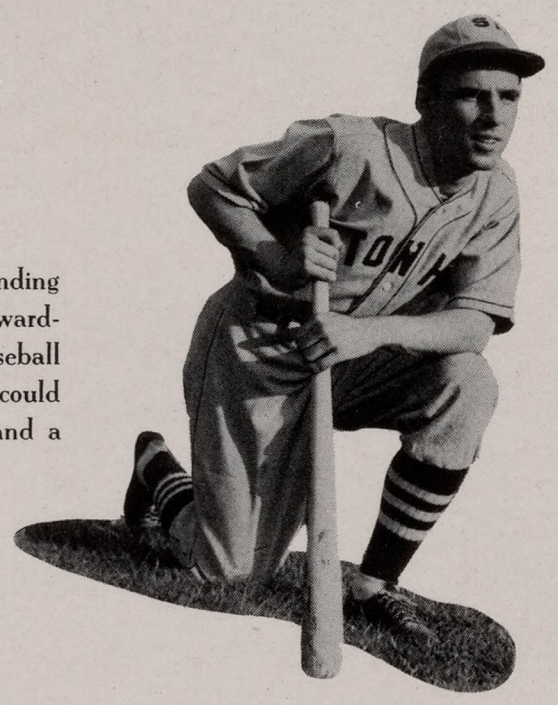

Genial "Al" needs no introduction to any Setonian. His ready wit and display of spirit on all occasions have earned him a place of importance on the campus. His public relations work has benefited the school in an important way. In addition to all this he manages to produce consistently good baseball teams.

Frank Delany, the outstanding senior athlete, was this year rewarded with the captaincy of the baseball team. No more fitting tribute could be found for a good athlete, and a great personality.

ALTHOUGH they failed to notch any victories, the Stanishmen performed creditably and at no time were they defeated by large scores. They opened against the undefeated Westchester squad and lost after a stubborn fight. The Stanishmen next encountered the East Stroudsburg soccer squad and, after leading most of the way, tied at 1—1 despite two overtime periods. "Bull" Brydon and Ed Piasecki stood out for the Pirate booters in these opening encounters. The Pirates became the twenty-fourth consecutive victim of the Rider combine despite brilliant play by Vic McKeon and the diminutive Tom Fahey. Strength in reserves spelled the difference between victory and defeat when the Stanishmen closed their season by bowing to Delaware University.

Due to press of other duties, Coach George Miele was forced to relinquish the reins as Pirate Soccer Coach. Into the breech stepped genial Mike Stanish. Mike, a senior, was unfortunate in his lack of experienced players, but the enthusiasm and the willingness with which he took over his job stamped him a real leader.

Joe Smith has been the driving force behind soccer at the Hall since its introduction. He was responsible for its inception, and since has acted both as player and manager. In both jobs, he has done well.

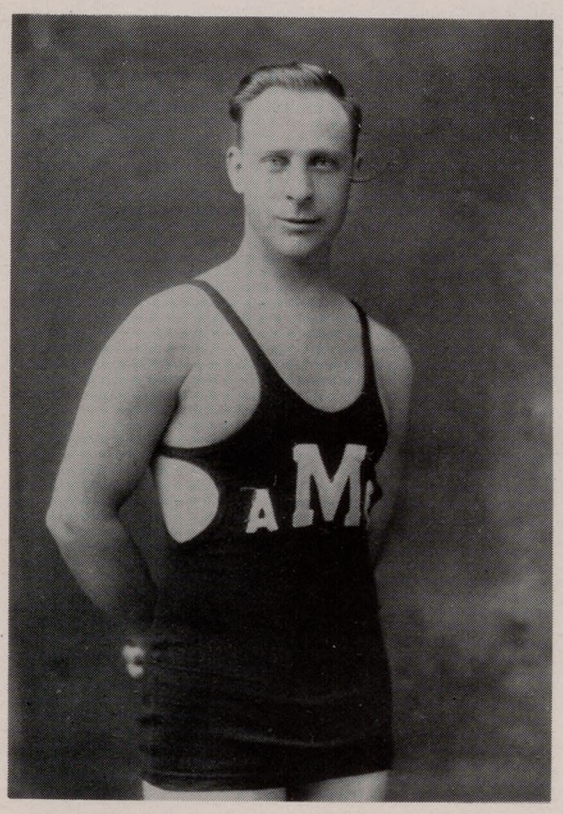

SWIMMING

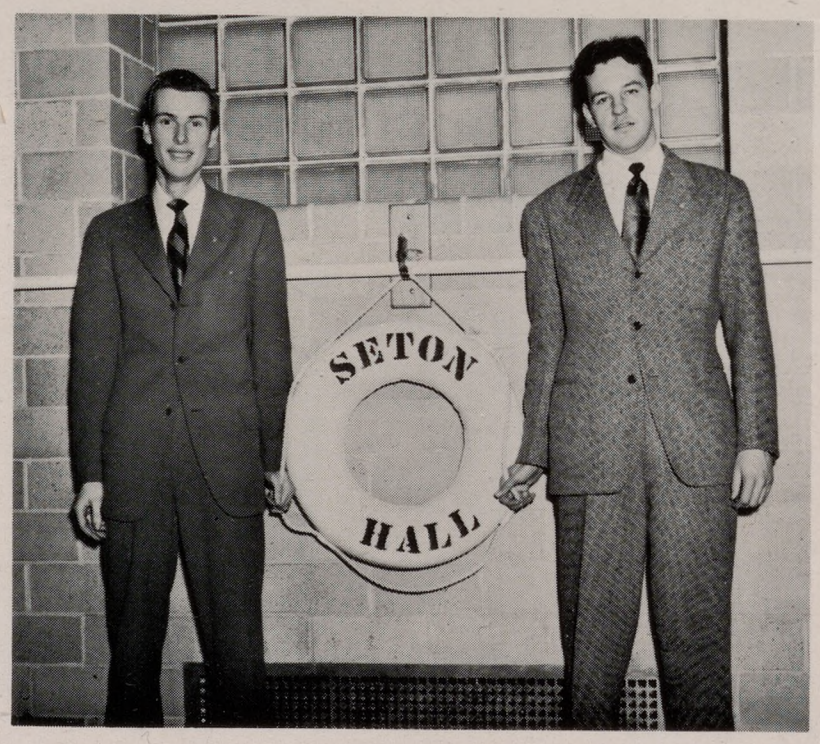

COACH FERINDEN

With the impetus given by the presence of a brand-new pool the tankmen this year have been setting the foundation for future successes. The squad under Coach Ferinden has been a Jayvee squad and besides defeating the Jayvee crews of Manhattan, Wyoming Seminary and others, they have met and defeated the varsity combines of Bucknell Junior College and Westchester Teachers.

The outstanding swimmer of the squad this year has been Robert "Red" Donnelly. Swimming any distance called for, Bob has been undefeated this year. Paul Bartlowitz, the husky back stroker, has also been a consistent winner for the Ferinden men, while Ferguson has finished first repeatedly in his event. Filipkowki has been the standout diver on the squad, displaying rare form for a freshman performer.

TENNIS

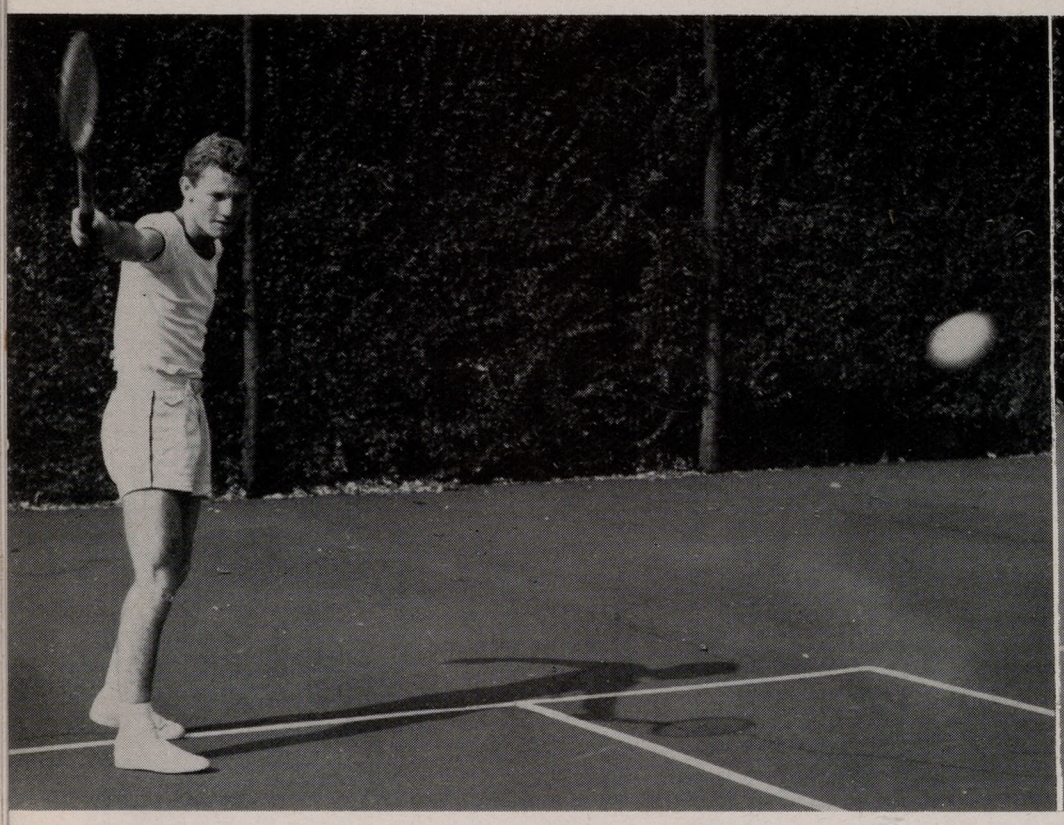

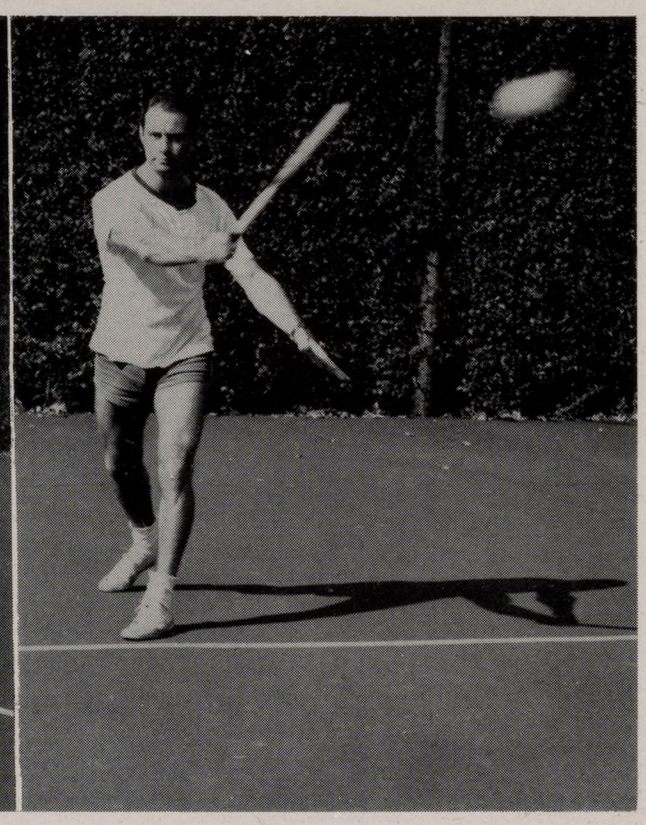

COACH QUINN

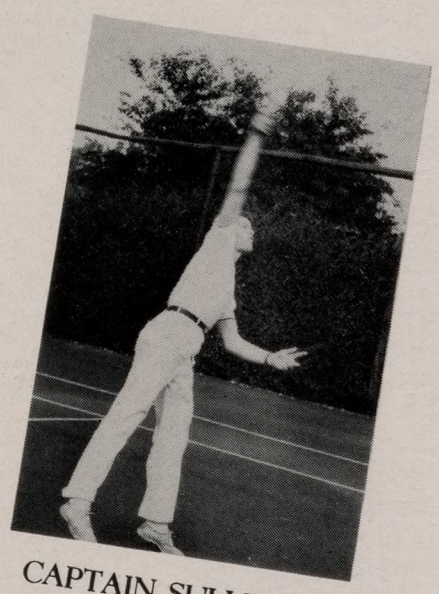

CONSTANT improvement has been the record of the net squad under the popular "Hank" Quinn. This should be a banner year for the racquetmen. Among the Varsity members returning are such stellar performers as Jim Sullivan, Ed Piasecki, Phil Rekoon, Gerry Dalton, and Bill Crozzi. Added to these are Lou Thebault and John Ryan from last year's Frosh squad.

COACH JACK RIETEMEIR

UNDER Jack Rietemeier, the ancient and honorable game will enter its third season at the Hall. Still in the formative stages, the squad is expected to develop this year with Bob Harvey, Den Doyle and Jack Synan returning. Much is expected also of George Lair and Frank Foley as well as others from last year's Frosh Tournament. Matches will be played with St. John's, Boston College, Westchester and Villanova.

To accomodate the various social functions which the ever increasing student body of Seton Hall might wish to conduct, Archbishop Walsh conceived and erected the new Auditorium which is one of the finest in the country. We, his loyal servants, deeply appreciate his foresight in providing such facilities for us.

May Our Almighty Father spare this holy priest to us for many years to come, so that he may be for us always, as now, an inspiration.

BOOK SIX

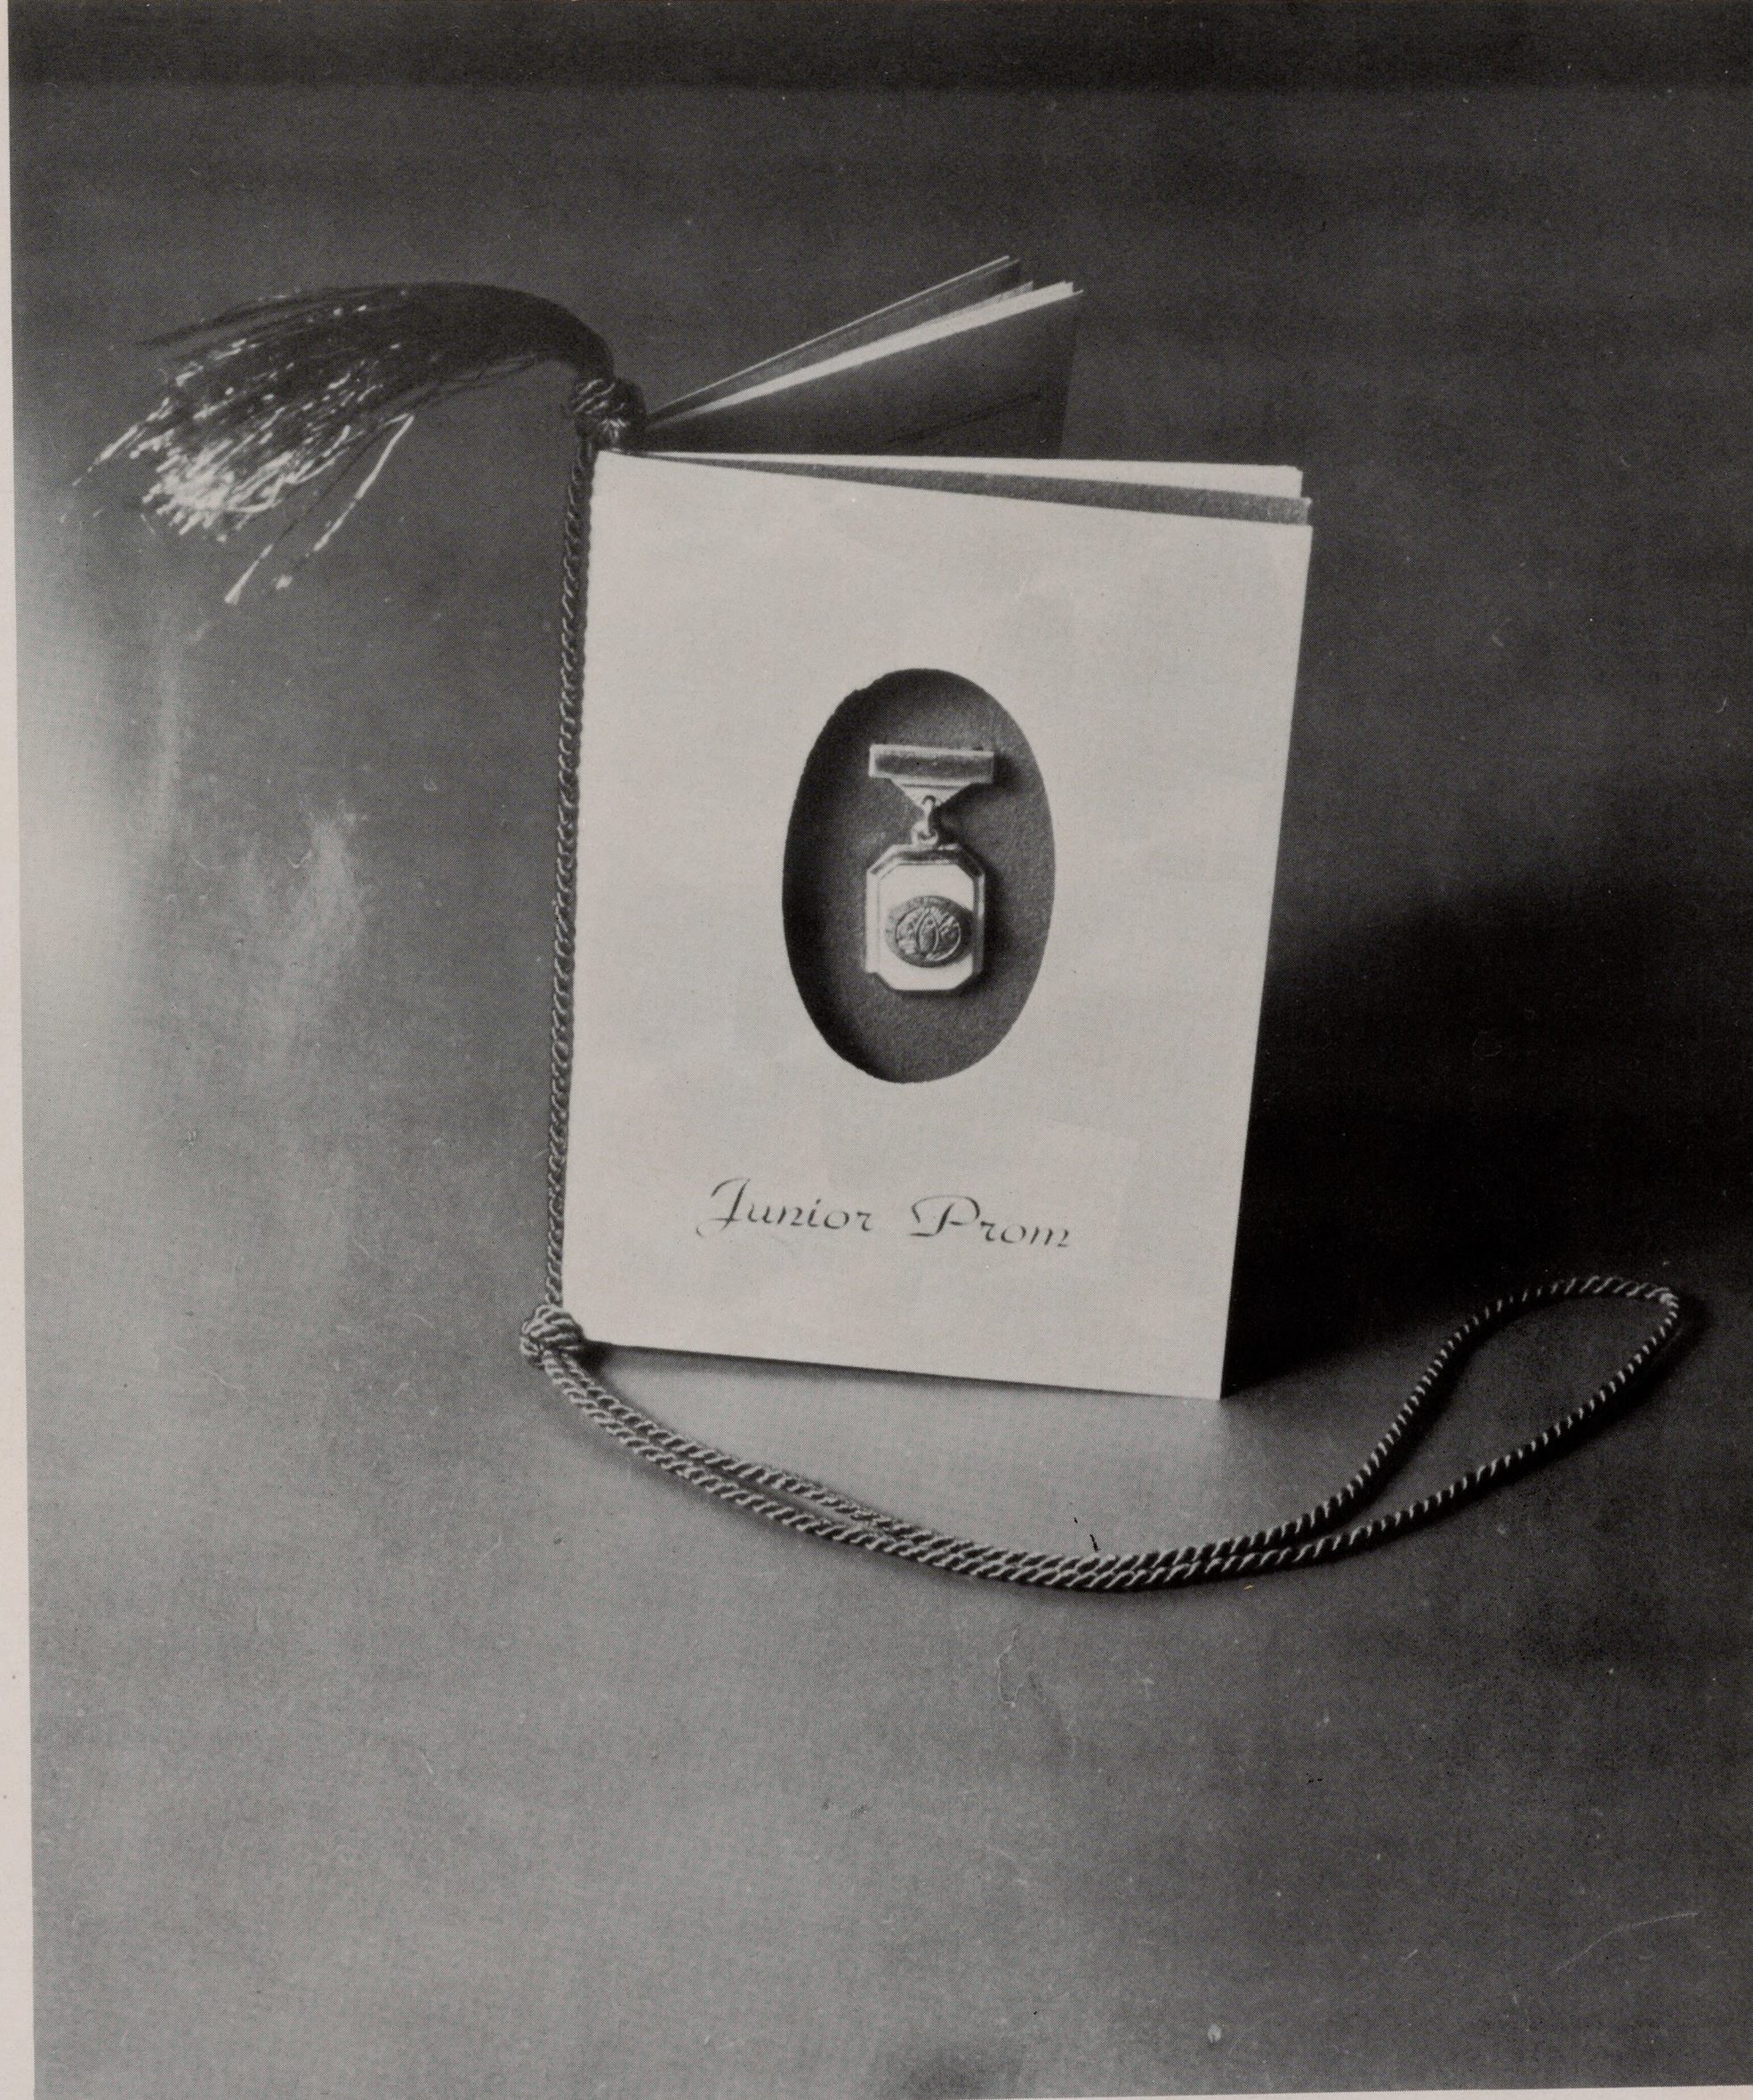

THE development of a well rounded personality demands a certain amount of social activity, and at Seton Hall this phase of a man's education is not ignored.

Several times during the year formal and informal dances are conducted with a background of ballroom lights, scintillating music, gay laughter, and a general air of fiesta. Here gallantry is in full flower as "Men of the Hall" squire their ladies with all the eclat of cosmopolitans and for the night, become gay blades. Here too, classroom problems are left far behind by the professors and students alike, and everyone becomes "right neighborly."

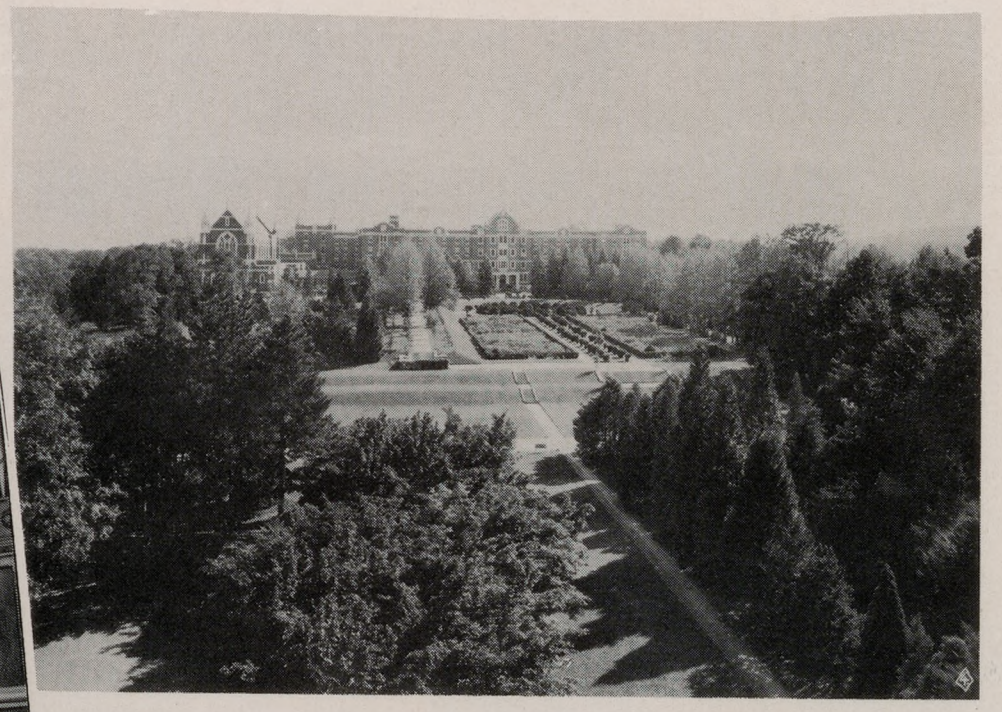

This same spirit of neighborliness pervades other activities also. From the time of his first retreat till his graduation a student is encouraged to mix with the other men; to get to know them, and to develop himself in any of the host of activities offered. Hence, when a man graduates, he is not a "bookworm"; he is not a muscle bound—he is a "Haller."

Senior Farewell

THE Class of 1940 attended its last formal as guests of the Class of '41 at the Essex County Country Club. The Budd-Laird Orchestra provided the music and John Devlin was chairman of the committee which was responsible for a very smooth evening of entertainment.

The Class of '41 was happy to conduct this dance for the seniors, realizing that they had achieved a long sought goal, but they were sad because it meant "farewell" to friends whom they admired.

Junior Prom

THAT "Sentimental Gentleman of Swing" wielded the baton; Ziggy Ehlman blew "hot licks" on the trumpet; Setonians and friends danced, and the class of 1942 exhibited smiles of great glee at having put over a truly wonderful Junior Prom. The Meadowbrook actually bulged with people as the class of '42 presented its "Prom" under the able leadership of Messrs. Egan and Kennedy. To add to the evening a "Queen was crowned" after having been selected from several hundred contestants. She and her escort led the grand march and all those who followed in their wake agreed that '42 had outdone itself in presenting the most "ultra" in formals to date.

Senior Informal Dance

The Class of '41 sponsored the first dance of the season in the new gym. While "I'll Never Smile Again," "Maybe," and the other current favorites were being played from the band stand, all Setonia was getting around to saying "hello" to all those whom they had missed in the early season rush. "Fritz" Kolarsick and "Johnny" Mahon, co-chairmen of the affair, were very pleased with the results of their efforts; for surely this was an affair to be remembered.

It seemed as though everyone and his brother were out in full force to dance to the strains of "The Royal Commanders," to hear Carmen and Ed sing, and to view Matt's imitations. All "came through" superbly and sent folks forth in a very satisfied frame of mind. One of the best social seasons in a long time was launched.

Junior Informal Dance

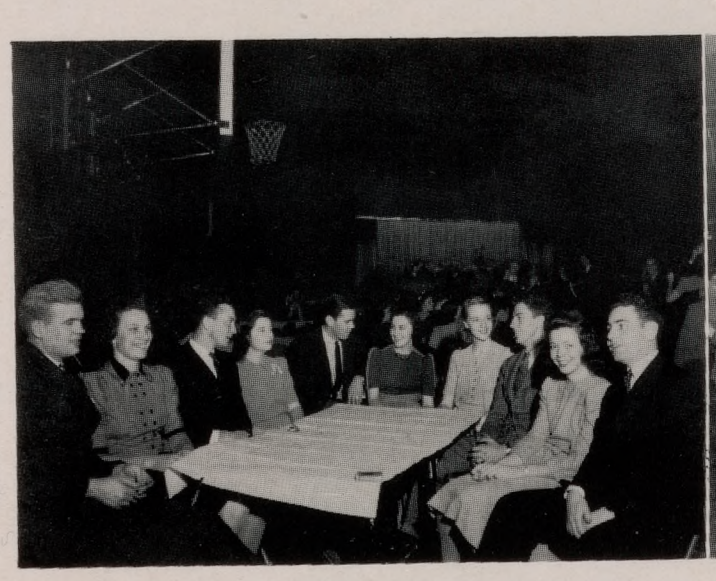

Soft lights, that Halloween atmosphere, Leo Birch and his "Rhythmiers" and an enthusiastic crowd of Setonians were the background of the first social event on the Junior's calendar which was held in the new gym.

Gerry Dalton did a commendable job for his class by turning out, with the assistance of a hard working committee, one of the smoothest events of the season. The tickets were made especially attractive due to the fact that the door prizes offered were bids to the Junior Promenade. Cliff Johnson added to the general air of levity by keeping all those present in constant mirth with his exceedingly clever impersonations and monologues.

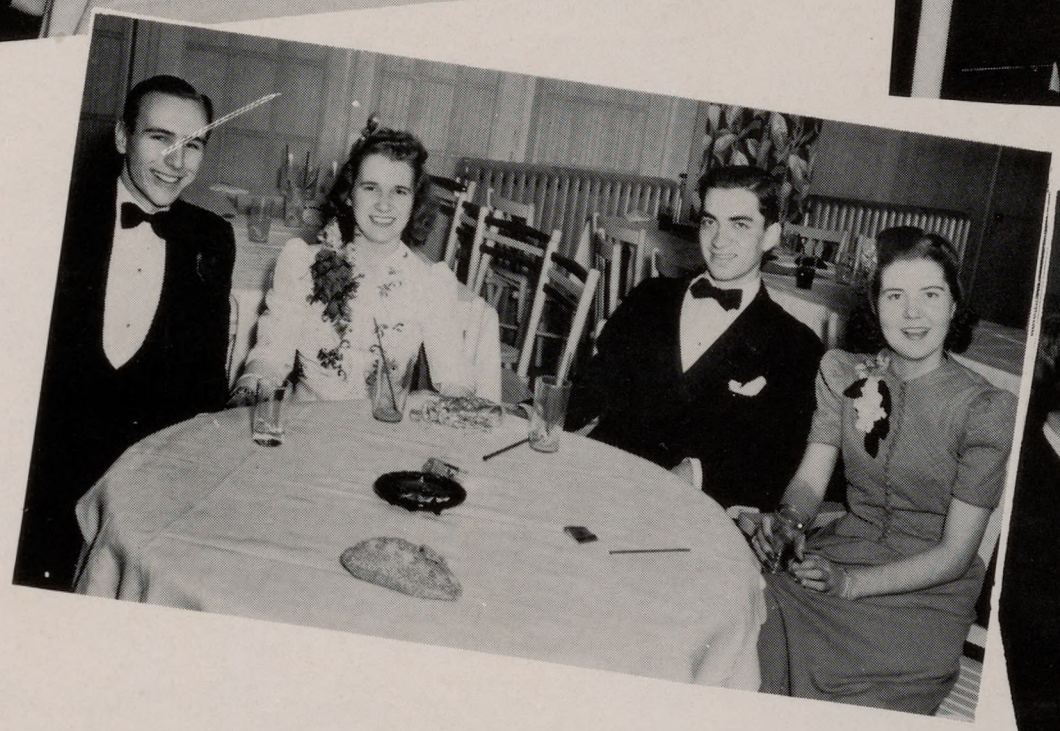

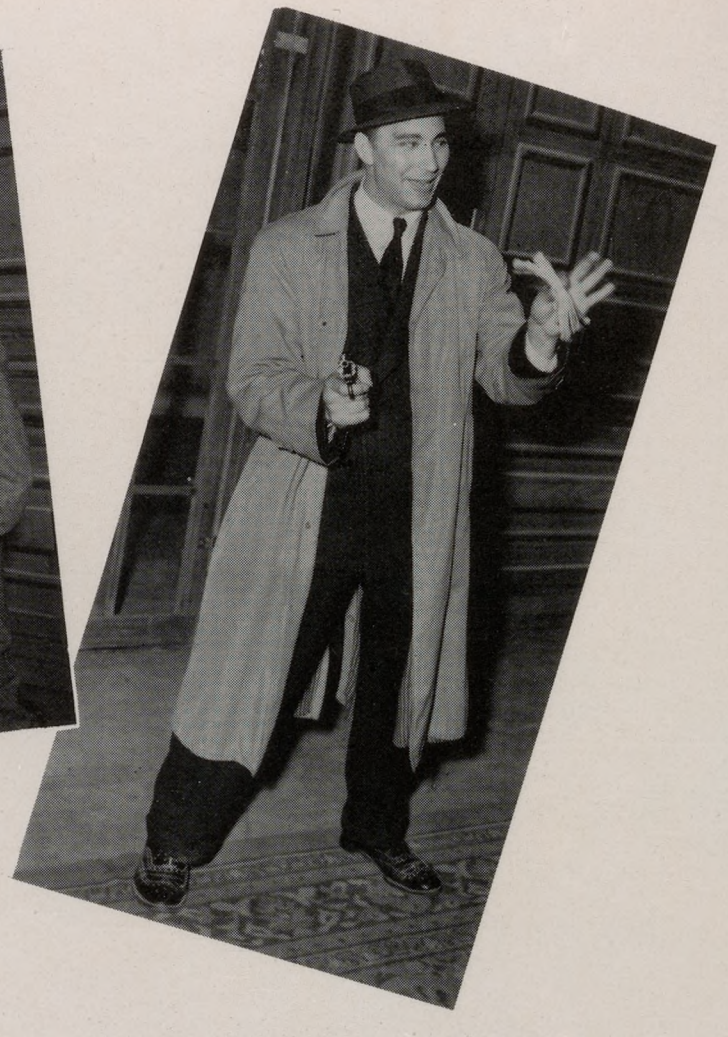

The Seven Keys To Baldpate

None other than the "Grand Old Man" of the theatre was the author of the 1940 Spring production—you guessed it—George M. Cohan.

The scene was laid in a deserted inn on a mountain top and the audience was kept in a constant state of mirth by Jack Synan as he cavorted about the stage as a demented hermit. The "leads" were very ably handled by Tom Higgins, '41, and Miss Marjorie Imhoff of the Seton Junior League.

This was just one of the many demonstrations of the Dramatic Society that took a Broadway play and presented it in a style to rival Broadway itself. Mr. James A. O'Connell directed the show and as usual did a stellar job.

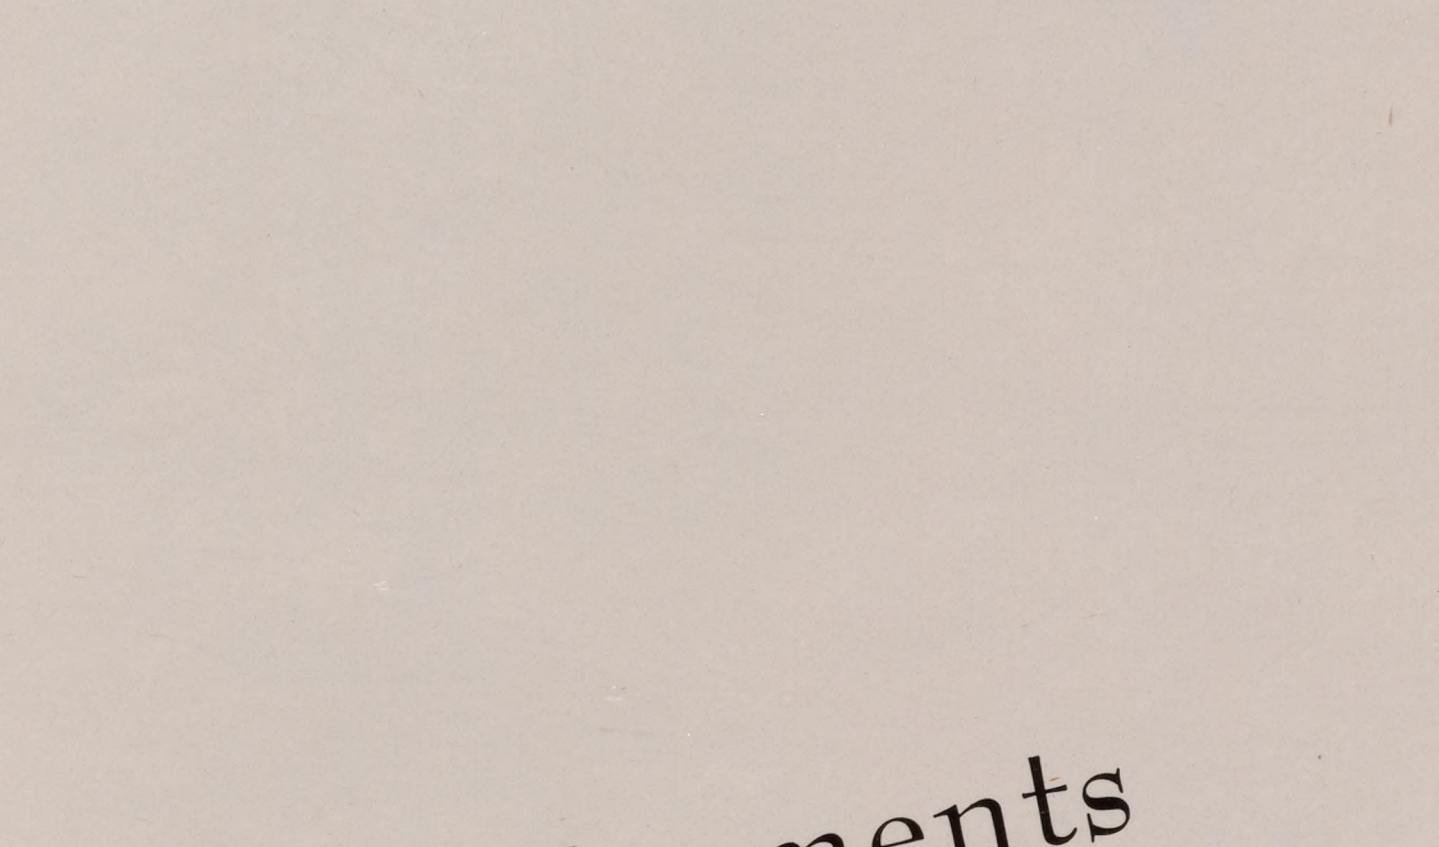

The Monsignor's Hour

THE second time the MONSIGNOR'S HOUR was presented in the United States, it was done at Seton Hall, in the 1940 Christmas show. Emmet Lavery's play in one act is laid in an art gallery of the Vatican and has set as its theme a plea for world peace. The message was conveyed to the audience by Tom Higgins who played the part of an American prelate visiting the Vatican. In this production directed by Mr. James A. O'Connell, Tom was assisted by Charles Silbernagle and Corbin Allardice. The young ladies of the Seton Junior League contributed an immeasurable amount of assistance in presenting a truly fine play in a truly fine manner.

Congratulations . . .

. . . to Father Carey, Jim Flynn, Val Farley, Joe MacMahon and the other members of the White and Blue Staff, for their achievement in producing this annual in keeping with the standard of other Seton Hall activities.

We are proud of the confidence they have placed in our ability to produce the White and Blue and it is our sincere hope that our conscientious efforts to serve . . . and serve well . . . will make possible the continuance of our association with the yearbook staff at Seton Hall College through successive years.

May success and prosperity be yours.
